THE CALENDAR

The calendar is a method of identifying the passage of time and thereby regulating our civil life and religious observances.

Days, months, and years are based on astronomical periods. The day is the time it takes the earth to make one revolution on its axis, the month is associated with the period of rotation of the moon around the earth, while the year has to do with the rotation of the earth around the sun.

Many religious ideas and observances have been connected with the changes of the moon, and in ancient times the calendar took account of the moon rather than the seasons. From new moon to new moon is 29.530 days, and from one spring equinox to the next is 365.24219 days. Since the two are incommensurable, the modern calendar disregards the moon.

THE JULIAN CALENDAR

When Julius Caesar came to power, the Roman Calendar was hopelessly confused. With the advice of the Alexandrian astronomer, Sosigenes, Julius Caesar established the Julian Calendar. The length of the year was taken as $365\frac{1}{4}$ days, and in order to account for the $\frac{1}{4}$ day, an extra day was added every fourth year. From 45 B.C. each month has had its present number of days. In the old Roman Calendar which was based on the moon an extra month was inserted to straighten out the difference between twelve lunations, 354.37 days, and 355 days, which they called a year. This was inserted when necessary after February 23rd. In the Julian Calendar the extra day was added by repeating the sixth day before the Kalends (1st) of March, whence comes our word bissextile for leap year.

Due to a misunderstanding about inserting the intercalary day, by the time 8 B.C. came, the year began three days too late. Augustus rectified this by omitting all intercalations till A.D. 8. The disturbing annual shift of days came in A.D. 321, when Emperor Constantine interjected the week into Julius Caesar's calendar without provision for days beyond 52 weeks.

No further change was made till the reform of Pope Gregory XIII in A.D. 1582.

The Julian Calendar is known as the "Old Style" and after the change made by Pope Gregory as the "New Style"; the difference between the two is 13 days. The Calendar so arranged is known as the "Old Style" and is now used by the Eastern Orthodox Church in Russia, Ukraina, Syria and Palestine.

Many Canadian citizens of Russian, Greek, Ukrainian or Syrian descent, thus observe their Christmas Day on Jan. 7 Gregorian.

THE GREGORIAN CALENDAR

In that the Solar Year is 11 minutes, 12 seconds less than the Julian Year of $365\frac{1}{4}$ days, it followed in course of years that the Julian Calendar became inaccurate by several days, and in 1582 this difference amounted to 10 days. Pope Gregory XIII, at the suggestion of Aloysius Lilius, an astronomer of Naples, determined to rectify this, and devised the Calendar now known as the Gregorian Calendar. He dropped or cancelled these 10 days—October 5th being called October 15th—and made centennial years Leap years only once in 4 centuries; so that whilst 1700, 1800 and 1900 were to be ordinary years, 2000 would be Leap year. This modification brought the Gregorian year into such close exactitude with the Solar year that there is only a difference of 26 seconds, which amounts to a day in 3,323 years. This is the "New Style". The Gregorian Calendar was adopted in Italy, France, Spain, Portugal and Poland in 1582, by most of the German Roman Catholic states, Holland and Flanders in 1583, Hungary in 1587. The adoption in Switzerland began in 1584 and was not completed till 1812. The German and Dutch Protestant states generally, along with Denmark adopted it in 1700. British dominions in 1752, Sweden in 1753, Japan in 1873, China in 1912, Bulgaria in 1915, Soviet Russia in 1918, Yugoslavia in 1919, Romania and Greece in 1924, Turkey in 1927. The rules for Easter have not, however, been adopted by those oriental churches that are not subject to the Papacy.

The difference between the two "Styles" will remain 13 days until A.D. 2100.

THE JEWISH CALENDAR

The Jewish Calendar from the institution of the Mosaic Law downward was a lunar one, consisting of twelve months. The cycles of religious feasts commencing with the passover depending not only on the month but on the Moon; the 14th of the month of Abid or Nisan was coincident with the full moon; and the new moons themselves were the occasions of regular festivals; the commencement of the month was generally determined by observations of the new moon, but twelve lunar months would make but 354½ days, the years would be short twelve days of the true year and it was necessary that an additional month, Veadar, be inserted about every third year.

The modern Jewish Calendar is based on fixed rules and not on observation. A common year may contain 353, 354 or 355 days and the Leap year 383, 384 or 385 days. The intercalary month always contains 30 days and is inserted next before the month Adar which name and place it takes. Adar itself is called second Adar or Veadar. Tishri 1 is the Jewish New Year and it cannot be a Sunday, Wednesday or Friday. Tishri 1 is not necessarily the day of new moon but is governed by a mean new moon which is calculated from the value of a mean lunation. It is complicated as compared with the Gregorian Calendar. The intercalary month is introduced seven times in every nineteen years.

The identification of the Jewish months with our own cannot be effected with precision on account of the variations existing between the lunar and solar month. The Jewish Calendar is given on page 4.

THE MOHAMMEDAN CALENDAR

The Mohammedan Calendar is called also the Calendar of Hegira (i.e. Migration) and is attributed to the primary migration of Mohammed, the Prophet of Islam, on September 20th, 622 A.D. from Mecca, his native city in the land of Hejaz, Arabia, to the city of Medina in the north of the same land. In Medina the Prophet and Founder of the Islamic Faith died and was buried.

Each year consists of 12 lunar months, and since no intercalation is made the months go round the seasons in between 32 and 33 years. In civil life there seems to be confusion as to the beginning of the month and unless both the day of week and day of the month are stated it is impossible to give an exact interpretation to a date.

The Mohammedan Calendar is observed by all the Moslems in Arabia, Yemen, Iraq, Transjordan, Persia, Afghanistan, India, Syria, Palestine, Egypt, Tripoli, Tunis, Algeria, Morocco, and in Turkey both Asiatic and European.

The year 1376, according to the Hegira Calendar began on August 7th, 1956; the year 1377 on July 28th, 1957 Gregorian.

OTHER CALENDARS IN USE

Other calendars in use at the present day, in addition to those above, include the Coptic, Hindu, Persian.

CALENDAR REFORM

Reform of the calendar, so that it may be balanced in structure, perpetual in form and harmonious in arrangement, has long been under discussion.

In 1937, when an enquiry was made by the League of Nations, 14 governments approved in principle of The World Calendar. World War II delayed further action. In October 1953 India put a proposal before the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations which embodied The World Calendar.

At Geneva, in July 1954, it was unanimously decided to request governments of member and non-member states to express their views on the desirability of calendar reform.

On May 16, 1955, ECOSOC decided to extend the time for sending in replies for a year.

The World Calendar comprises equal quarters in which the first month of each has 31 days and the other two 30 days each. These quarters contain exactly 91 days, 13 weeks and 3 months, with 13

Sundays and 78 weekdays, while each month has 28 weekdays. The last day of every year, December 31st, is called Worldsday and is placed between Saturday, December 30th, and Sunday, January 1st. In leap years, to make up the quota of 366 days, Leapyear Day, June 31st, is similarly interposed between Saturday and Sunday at the half year. The calendar is thus stabilized and has the same day-and-date arrangement every year. Christmas always falls on Monday, Dominion Day, July 1st, on Sunday with observance on Monday.

Worldsday is designed to be a world-wide holiday dedicated to international good will. Leapyear Day would also be a day of rest.

The World Calendar is sponsored by the International World Calendar Association, now with headquarters in Ottawa (address P.O. Box 20, Besserer St.) A. J. Hills Chairman of the Canadian Affiliate has succeeded to the Presidency. Dr. B. F. Haanel is Honorary Secretary-Treasurer.

The Association has consultative status with the United Nations as a Non-Governmental Organization. Through its affiliates and National Committees throughout the world the Association endeavours to advance its plan of calendar reform, which through ECOSOC was referred to members and non-members of U.N.

The change-over could be effected without disturbance when the Gregorian calendar commences on a Sunday, which will occur in 1961 and again in 1967. With The World Calendar, every year commences on Sunday, January 1st.

Bills introduced in United States House of Representatives and U.S. Senate were referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs and Foreign Relations.

THE WEEK

The division of the week is found only among Aryan nations and in regions into which they have penetrated. The day is, for convenience, divided into 24 equal parts and is the period of a single rotation of the earth upon its own axis.

A Solar or Astronomical day commences at midnight, and is divided into two equal portions of 12 hours each—those before noon being termed (A.M.) those after noon (P.M.).

The Chinese week consists of 5 days, which are named after iron, wood, water, feathers and earth; they divide the day into 12 parts of 2 hours each.

The Anglo-Saxons named the days of the week after the following deities; Sunday, the Sun; Monday, the Moon; Tuesday, Tuesco (God of War); Wednesday, Woden (God of Storms); Thursday, Thor (God of Thunder); Friday, Freya (Goddess of Love); Saturday, Saturn (God of Time).

The word week is from Wikon (German); = change, succession.

In The Soviet Union up to June 27, 1940 the six-day week prevailed in many factories, etc.; that is, five days of work followed by a day of rest. The free days were usually the 6th, 12th, 18th, 24th, and 30th of the month. In some industries where there is continuous production (steel mills, chemical plants, mines, etc.) there was a five-day week—that is four days of work followed by a rest day. On June 27th, 1940, by ukase of the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R. the seven day week was introduced everywhere in the Soviet Union, Sunday being observed as a day of rest.

Dominical Letter

The Roman Calendar makers placed the letters A,B,C,D,E,F,G. against the day of the year. The letter which stands against the Sundays is known as the Dominical Letter. In Leap year since no letter is set opposite the added day one letter appears for January and February and the letter preceding for the remainder of the year.

Example—

	A	B	C	D	E	F	G
1956	Sun.	Mon.	Tu.	Wed.	Th.	Fri.	Sat.
Jan.	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Feb.	26	27	28	29
	A	B	C	—	D	E	F
Mar.					1	2	3

Jan. 1 (Sun.) is A. A therefore is the Dominical letter for Jan. and Feb. Since no letter is assigned for Feb. 29, Sunday from then on comes under the letter, G, which is the letter for the remainder of the year.

Golden Number—The calendar for the phases of the moon is nearly the same every 19 years which is known as the Metonic Cycle. The Golden Number is its number in this Metonic Cycle. To find the Golden Number for 1957 add 1 to 1957 and divide by 19. The remainder, 1, is the Golden Number.

Epect is the age of the moon on some fixed day of the calendar year. (January 1 Gregorian Calendar).

Solar Cycle

In the Julian Calendar the days of the year recurred on the same days of the week in 7 x 4 years;

28 years was called the Solar Cycle. It is little used now.

The Cycle of the Indiction, is a non-astronomical cycle of 15 years. Following Diocletian's reconquest of Egypt in A.D. 297 a provincial census was taken and repeated every 15 years.

Julian Period

This is a combination of the Solar Cycle of 28 years, the Metonic or Lunar Cycle of 19 years, and the Cycle of the Indiction, 15 years. These are all supposed to begin on January 1 of the Julian Calendar which was 4713 B.C. The Julian days are numbered consecutively from Greenwich mean noon on January 1, 4713 B.C.

STANDARD TIME ZONES IN CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES

SOLAR, SIDEREAL AND STANDARD TIME

Apparent Time. — By apparent noon is meant the moment when the sun is on the meridian, and apparent time is measured by the distance in degrees that the sun is east or west of the meridian. Apparent time is given by the sun dial.

Mean Time. — The interval between apparent noon on two successive days is not constant, and a clock cannot be constructed to keep apparent time. For this reason mean time is used. The length of a mean day is the average of all the apparent days throughout the year. The real sun moves about the ecliptic in one year; an imaginary mean sun is considered as moving uniformly around the celestial equator in one year. The difference between the times that the real sun and the mean sun cross the meridian (i.e. between apparent noon and mean noon) is the equation of time.

Sidereal Time. — This is time as determined from the stars. It is sidereal 0 hours when the Vernal Equinox or First of Aries is on the meridian. In accurate time-keeping the moment when a star is on the meridian is observed and the corresponding mean time is then computed with the assistance of the Nautical Almanac or by the help of the table on page 20. (See notes, page 11). When a telescope is mounted equatorially the position of a body in the sky is located by means of the sidereal time.

Standard Time. — Owing to the great breadth of the Dominion the difference in solar time in various parts of the country is adjusted by the creation of Standard Time Zones, one hour in width, fixed between arbitrary lines running north and south, 15° of longitude apart, the time observed in each zone being an exact number of hours slow from Greenwich.

Example: When it is 8 a.m. by Pacific Time it is 12 noon by Atlantic Time and 4 p.m. at Greenwich.

There are seven zones divided as follows, reckoning from Greenwich:

Newfoundland Standard Time	Newfoundland, including Labrador, 3½ hours slow.
Atlantic Standard Time	New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, and those parts of Quebec and N.W.T. east of the 68th Meridian, 4 hours slow. (Railway time changes going west at Campbellton and Saint John, N.B.)
60th Meridian Time	Quebec west of the 68th Meridian and Ontario as far west as the 90th Meridian; N.W.T. between the 68th and 85th Meridian, 5 hours slow. (Railway time changes going west at Fort William and Armstrong.)
Eastern Standard Time	Ontario west of the 90th Meridian, Manitoba, southeasterly part of Saskatchewan and N.W.T. between the 85th and 102nd Meridian, 6 hours slow. (Railway time changes going west at Broadview, Watrous, Arcola, Neudorf, Humboldt, Kipling, and Hudson Bay Junction.)
75th Meridian Time	Saskatchewan except in the southeasterly part; throughout Alberta and in N.W.T. between the 102nd and 120th Meridian, 7 hours slow. (Railway time changes going west at Jasper, Crow's Nest and Field.)
Central Standard Time	Throughout British Columbia and in N.W.T. west of the 120th Meridian, 8 hours slow.
90th Meridian Time	Throughout Yukon Territory, 9 hours slow.
Mountain Standard Time
105th Meridian Time
Pacific Standard Time
120th Meridian Time
Yukon Standard Time
135th Meridian Time

Standard Times as used by the railways in traversing these Zones are in general use. Solar time around the globe varies four minutes with each degree of longitude.

The Standard Time Zones in Canada and the United States are shown on the map above

ECLIPSES DURING 1957

In the year 1957 there will be four eclipses, two of the sun and two of the moon. An eclipse of the sun on April 29th will be visible as a partial eclipse in Western Canada, a total eclipse of the moon on May 13th will be visible briefly just at moonrise on the east coast, and a total eclipse of the moon on the morning of November 7th will be visible just before moonset in Western Canada.

1. An annular eclipse of the sun on April 29. The path of the annular eclipse is confined to the Arctic, but a partial eclipse will be visible over the eastern part of Asia and the north-western part of North America. Residents of Canada west of a line from James Bay through Lake Superior will see a "nick" taken from the sun just before sunset on April 29th.

2. A total eclipse of the moon on May 13. This eclipse will be visible in Asia, Africa, Europe and the Atlantic Ocean. Residents of the Maritime provinces may notice the full moon to be "lop-sided" just as the eclipse is ending at moonrise. Elsewhere in Canada the eclipse will be over before moonrise.

3. A total eclipse of the sun on October 23. The path of totality is confined to the Antarctic, but a partial eclipse will be visible in South Africa as well.

4. A total eclipse of the moon on November 7. This eclipse will be visible generally in the Arctic, the Pacific Ocean, Australia and Asia. The beginning will be visible in the western part of Canada where residents will see the moon eclipsed or partially eclipsed just before moonset on the morning of November 7th.

Transit of Mercury. A rare phenomenon, a transit of the planet Mercury over the sun's disk will occur on May 5, 1957. The ingress will be visible generally in Canada except in the extreme east, beginning about 18h 58m E.S.T. The egress will be visible only in the far west, ending at about 18h 29m P.S.T.

MAGNETIC DECLINATION

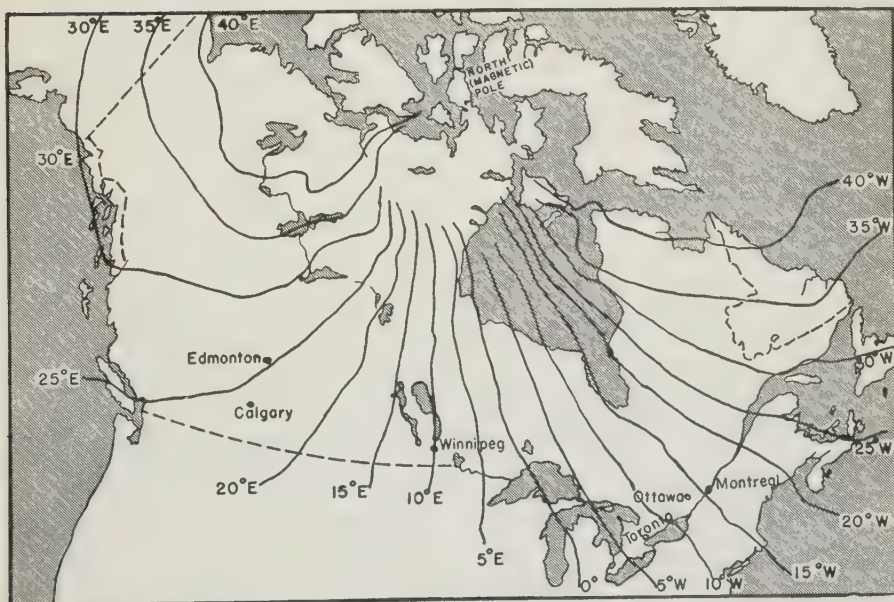

CHART OF MAGNETIC DECLINATION

A compass needle, even when unaffected by extraneous magnetic fields, does not in general point due north. The amount and direction by which its direction differs from true north is called magnetic declination or variation. The declination varies with the position of the observer and also varies slowly with time. The above chart gives the values of declination over the Dominion as of 1940. These values may be used for 1957 unless accuracy of better than 1° is required.

Example: What is the direction of the compass needle at the southern tip of Lake Manitoba?

From the chart this point is about $\frac{1}{4}$ of the way from the line of 10°E declination towards the line of 15°E declination. Therefore the declination is 11°E , i.e., the needle points 11° east of true north.

A large map of Canada showing lines of Equal Magnetic Declination and Annual Change in Canada for 1940 is obtainable from the office of the Surveyor General, Ottawa, for 25 cents.

NOTES ON THE ASTRONOMICAL TABLES

The purpose of the following notes is to explain the tables and charts which are not self-explanatory and to illustrate the uses to which they may be put.

Sunrise, Sunset, Moonrise and Moonset (see tables pp. 12 to 18). These tables give Standard Times of risings and settings for the places to which they apply (i.e. E.S.T. for Toronto and Ottawa, C.S.T. for Winnipeg, P.S.T. for Vancouver). The calculations are for the upper limb (edge) of the sun and they are made for the astronomical (sea) horizon. Accordingly, the times will not be correct if the observer is below or above the level of his visible horizon at the point of sunrise or sunset.

The times of sunrise and sunset for a place other than those given in the table can be obtained with a fair degree of precision by proceeding as follows: Choose two places in the table which bracket your latitude; take the times of sunrise (or sunset) of each of these; change each to Local Mean Time by adding (or subtracting) 4 minutes of time per degree for the number of degrees of longitude by which that place is east (or west) of the standard meridian of its time zone. Then, by finding the change per degree of latitude difference, find the local Mean Time for your own latitude. Finally add (or subtract) 4 minutes for each degree of longitude which you are west (or east) of your standard meridian to obtain Standard Time.

If the place has a latitude nearly equal to that of one of the places listed (say within half a degree) the procedure may be simplified: For each degree by which the place is west (or east) of the listed place add (or subtract) 4 minutes to the tabulated value of the listed place. This gives the time of sunrise or sunset in the Standard Time of the listed place; change to the Standard Time of the required place if it is in a different time zone.

Example: Required to find the time of sunset on Jan. 1, 1957 for Quebec City (lat. $46^{\circ} 48' N$, long. $71^{\circ} 13' W$).

From tables: Ottawa 16 30, Winnipeg 16 37. Ottawa is about $\frac{3}{4}$ west of 75th meridian; Winnipeg is about 7° west of 90th meridian. Therefore L.M.T. for Ottawa is $16\ 30 - 3 = 16\ 27$, and L.M.T. for Winnipeg is $16\ 37 - 28 = 16\ 09$. Difference in latitude of Winnipeg and Ottawa is about 5° . Thus sunset is earlier from the latitude of Ottawa northward by about $3\frac{1}{2}$ minutes per degree of latitude and, since Quebec is about $1\frac{1}{2}$ farther north than Ottawa, the L.M.T. of sunset at Quebec is $16\ 27 - 5 = 16\ 22$. Since Quebec is about $3\frac{3}{4}$ east of the 75th meridian the E.S.T. of sunset at Quebec is $16\ 22 - 15 = 16\ 07$.

Note: Since Montreal and Ottawa are at about the same latitude the E.S.T. of sunrise and sunset for Montreal may be taken as simply 9 minutes earlier than at Ottawa.

The times of moonrise and moonset are not easily obtained with precision for places other than those listed in the tables because of the more rapid motion of the moon. However, by using the Ottawa, Winnipeg or Vancouver values for Eastern, Central or Western Canada respectively, the errors will usually be less than half an hour.

Azimuth of the Sun at Rising and Setting (see table on page 19). Only twice a year, namely about March 21 and September 23, does the sun rise and set more or less exactly in the east and the west respectively. It is of interest and sometimes of value to know the position of sunrise and sunset at other times. The table on page 19 tabulates these positions in degrees east of north and west of north for sunrise and sunset respectively for a selection of latitudes and dates. For latitudes and dates other than those tabulated take simple proportions.

Time when the Sun is on the Meridian (see table on page 20). If Standard Time is to be obtained from a sun-dial or from a noon marker or, conversely, if direction is to be obtained by the sun from a knowledge of time, it is necessary to know the time when the sun is on the meridian, i.e., due south. The correction to the sun-dial is given for every third day in the table on page 20. (Take simple proportions for intermediate days.) Add this to Apparent Solar Time to obtain Local Mean Time. To obtain Standard Time add (or subtract) 4 minutes per degree of longitude by which you are west (or east) of your standard meridian.

Example: At Toronto on February 3rd what is the Eastern Standard Time when a vertical peg casts a shadow due north?

It is then noon Apparent Solar Time. Correction to the sun-dial from table is $+13m.52s$. Therefore Local Mean Time is $12h. 13m. 52s$. and since Toronto is $4\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$ west of the 75th meridian, the Eastern Standard Time is $12h. 13m. 52s. + 17m. 40s. = 12h. 31m. 32s$.

Sidereal Time (see table on page 20). For any given moment the local sidereal time may be obtained with an accuracy of a second or two from the table of the Ephemeris of the Sun as follows: In this table choose the date next preceding the given moment. For this date apply the correction to the sun-dial with sign reversed to the sun's apparent right ascension, then add or subtract 12 hours. The result is the Greenwich Sidereal Time (G.S.T.) for 0h G.M.T. on the tabular date. Advance this time by the G.M.T. of the required moment and by $3m\ 57s$ per day (about 10s per hour) for the interval between the tabular date and the required moment; finally retard the time by the longitude west expressed in hours, minutes and seconds.

Example: Required to find the local sidereal time for Toronto (longitude $5h, 17m\ 40s\ W$.) at 22 40 E.S.T. Sept. 12.

G.M.T. of required moment is 3 40 Sept. 13. From table 0h G.M.T. Sept. 13 is $11h\ 23m\ 00s + 3m\ 53s + 12h = 23h\ 23m\ 54s\ G.S.T.$ Therefore $3h\ 40m\ G.M.T.$ Sept. 12 is $23h\ 26m\ 53s + 3h\ 40m + 3\frac{1}{4} \times 10s = 27h\ 07m\ 30s\ G.S.T.$ Therefore local sidereal time is $3h\ 07m\ 30s - 5h\ 17m\ 40s = 21h\ 49m\ 50s$.

Altitude of the Sun at Meridian Passage (see table on page 20). For architectural or gardening purposes it may be of value to know the maximum (i.e. noon-time) altitude of the sun at various seasons. This is obtained from the table of the sun's apparent declination which is listed for every third day. (Take simple proportions for intermediate days.) Proceed as follows: Subtract your latitude (presumed in the northern hemisphere) from 90° ; add or subtract (as indicated by the sign) the value of the sun's declination for the proper date.

Example: How high is the sun at noon on November 24th at Quebec City (latitude $46^{\circ} 48'$)? $90^{\circ} - 46^{\circ} 48' = 43^{\circ} 12'$. Sun's declination on Nov. 24 is $-20^{\circ} 27'$. Therefore sun's altitude at noon is $43^{\circ} 12' - 20^{\circ} 27' = 22^{\circ} 45'$.

Direction obtained from the Pole Star (see table on page 20). A previous note explained how the sun may be used to obtain the north-south direction. If a theodolite or telescopic sighting device is available, a north-south line may be laid down more accurately by means of the Pole Star. This star is exactly north only twice per day, namely at upper and lower transits. The table on page 20 lists the Local Mean Time of the upper transit of Polaris for every third day. (Take simple proportions for intermediate days.) The lower transit is $11h. 58m.$ later. To find the corresponding Standard Time add (or subtract) 4 minutes per degree of longitude by which you are west (or east) of your standard meridian.

Example: During the night of February 15-16 when is Polaris due north at Toronto (long. $79^{\circ} 24' W$)?

From table, upper transit is at 16 11 L.M.T. on Feb. 15. Lower transit therefore is at 4 09 L.M.T. on Feb. 16. Toronto is about $4\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$ west of the 75th meridian, therefore the corresponding E.S.T. is $4\ 09 + 18 = 4\ 27$.

Note: Although the table of upper transits of Polaris was calculated for longitude $90^{\circ}W$, little error will result in accepting these values for the whole of Canada. Working to the nearest whole minute of time the errors made in the direction of Polaris by this method will seldom exceed 10 seconds of arc.

ASTRONOMY IN CANADA

During the past fifty years Canada has established and maintained a prominent place in the field of astronomy, both professional and amateur.

Canada possesses three major astronomical observatories: the Dominion Observatory at Ottawa, the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Victoria, and the David Dunlap Observatory at Toronto. The Dominion observatories are operated under the Department of Mines and Technical Surveys and the David Dunlap Observatory is operated by the University of Toronto.

The Dominion Observatory at Ottawa has been operating since 1905. Its principal astronomical functions at the present time are the time service, solar research, and meteoric research. Its largest telescope is a 15-inch refractor.

The principal telescope of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory is a 72-inch reflector completed in 1918. With this instrument much important research concerning the motion and nature of stars has been accomplished.

The David Dunlap Observatory was completed in 1935, a gift to the University of Toronto from the late Mrs. David Dunlap in memory of her husband. The large telescope at this observatory is a 74-inch reflector. Research problems include stellar motions, stellar spectroscopy, and the study of variable stars.

The telescopes at Toronto and Victoria are exceeded in size only by the Mount Palomar 200-inch telescope, the Mount Wilson 100-inch telescope, both in California, and the 82-inch telescope of the McDonald Observatory in Texas.

As well as these major observatories where telescopic observations are made every clear night, there are a number of observatories primarily devoted to astronomical instruction. Among these are the Hume Cronyn Memorial Observatory of the University of Western Ontario at London (10-inch refractor), the Observatory of the University of Saskatchewan at Saskatoon (7-inch refractor) and the Observatory of the Royal Astronomical Society of Quebec City (16-inch reflector).

Public visiting hours at these observatories are as follows: Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Victoria, Saturday evenings throughout the year; the Dominion Observatory, Ottawa, Saturday evenings, April to October inclusive, and during daytime, Monday to Friday, from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and 2:00 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. local time; David Dunlap Observatory at Toronto, Saturday evenings April 1 to October 31, and Wednesday afternoons throughout the year; Hume Cronyn Observatory at London, first Saturday evening in each month; University of Saskatchewan Observatory at Saskatoon and the R.A.S.C. Observatory at Quebec, one hour every clear evening.

There are other smaller observatories at Universities and Colleges which are reserved for student instruction.

In addition to professional astronomers there are many amateurs in Canada who follow this interesting study. Most of these are members of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada (see Index), membership in which is open to all who are interested in the subject.

METEORS, METEORITES, AND METEOR SHOWERS

A meteor or "shooting star" appears momentarily in the sky when a particle from beyond the earth enters the earth's atmosphere at a high velocity. Most visible meteors are caused by particles smaller than a grain of wheat, and these small particles are completely vaporized in the atmosphere at a height of about 80 miles. A spectacular meteor, known as a fire-ball, is caused by a larger body which may fall to the earth's surface in one or more pieces. Particles seen thus to fall, or subsequently found by analysis to be of this nature, are called meteorites.

Meteorites may be divided into two main classes—the irons, which are almost pure nickel-iron, and the stones. Any meteorite is characterized by a dark, smooth crust caused by the fusion of the outer part.

Meteors may be observed on any clear, moonless night at an average rate of about ten an hour. At times there occur meteor showers, when meteors are seen with much greater frequency and appear to radiate from a particular part of the sky which is called the radiant. This is an effect of perspective, the radiant being the vanishing point of the parallel tracks of the meteors. Meteor showers usually repeat themselves annually, and have nearly always been associated with the orbits of comets. When the earth passes through or near the orbit of a comet it intercepts straggling particles which cause meteors. The principal meteor showers for the northern hemisphere are listed below.

The study of meteors and meteorites adds to our knowledge of the nature and origin of the solar system and also to our knowledge of the earth's outer atmosphere.

WEIGHTS, MEASURES, AND STANDARDS IN CANADA

The Weights and Measures Act, R.S.C. 1952, Chapter 292, Sections 9, 12 and 13, establishes the standards of length, weight and capacity for Canada. Multiples or fractions in addition to those shown below can be found by referring to Sections 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13. The standard measure of length is the yard; one third of the yard is the foot; the twelfth part of the foot is an inch; and the cord contains one hundred and twenty-eight cubic feet. The standard measure of weight is the pound (avoirduupois); one-sixteenth of the pound is an ounce (437½ grains); one seven thousandth of the pound is a grain; a cental or hundred weight is one hundred pounds; a ton is two thousand pounds; an ounce troy is four hundred and eighty grains. The standard measure of capacity, for liquids or otherwise, is the gallon that contains ten Canadian standard pounds weight of distilled water weighed in dry air against brass weights of density 0.30346 of a pound per cubic inch with the water and air at sixty-two degrees Fahrenheit and the barometer at thirty inches. The quart contains one-fourth of the gallon; the pint contains one-eighth of the gallon; a bushel contains eight gallons; and the hundred and sixtieth part of the gallon by volume is a fluid ounce.

IMPERIAL MEASURE

The gallon, sometimes known as the "Imperial Gallon," contains 277.42 cubic inches. This compares with the American gallon of 231 cubic inches (liquid) and 268.80 cubic inches (dry). The more common comparison between liquid gallons places the Canadian about 20% greater in volume than the U.S. The common conversion fraction is 6 to 5 in favour of the Canadian gallon.

Grade B.—The second grade, reasonably clean and sound in shell, weighing individually at the rate of 21 oz. or more per dozen.

Grade C.—The lowest grade, comprising eggs not permitted to be graded in Grades A and B, but which are still not of a condition unfit for human consumption.

Craz—Eggs with cracked shells. They must be packed separately.

Grade A1.—This grade is marketed only from farms holding a permit which is based on the suitability of production conditions; packed in three weights, Large, Medium and Small, the weights of which are the same as for Grade A.

Fresh—The word "fresh" shall be used only in conjunction with Grade A eggs which have not been cold stored

MEASURES OF LENGTH

British Standard
Nautical Mile = 6,080 Feet

The origin of this is unknown, but the length has been in use for more than 100 years.

The Hydrographic Department of the British Admiralty, however, uses a variable nautical mile according to latitude, 6,048 feet at the Equator, 6,108 feet at the Poles.

The Arpent.....	= 180 French Feet

Square Land Measure

The Arpent..... = 32400 Square French Feet

100 years.....	= 1 century

The mean solar year is equal to 365 days, 5 hrs. 48 min. 45.7 sec., or nearly 365½ days.

Every year whose number is divisible by 4 is a leap year, unless the number of the year ends in two ciphers, in which case the number must be divisible by 400. Thus, 2000 and 2400 will be leap years, but 1900 was not a leap year.

Solar time around the Globe varies 4 minutes with each degree of longitude.

MEASUREMENT OF SHIP TONNAGE

Followed by the British Board of Trade; applying to all ships in the British Merchant Service, including Canadian registered vessels. The U.S. merchant service use a different method.

Gross Tonnage is the unit of volume containing 100 cubic feet in the internal volume of a vessel under the tonnage deck to which is added:—

- (1) the 'tween deck space, if any, above the tonnage deck.
- (2) the volume of permanently closed-in spaces above the upper deck available for cargo stores, or for passengers and crew and
- (3) any excess of hatchways.

NET or REGISTER TONNAGE. The Net or Register Tonnage is the Gross Tonnage as found above less deductions for crew space, stores, navigation spaces, allowance for propelling power and other deductions allowable under the Merchant Shipping Act.

DEADWEIGHT TONNAGE is the amount of cargo, bunkers, reserve feed water, domestic and sanitary water, provisions, consumable stores and effects on board, and is expressed in tons of 2240 lbs. each; or alternatively it is the difference in the displacement at a given draft and the displacement of the vessel "lightship" with water in boilers to working level and ready for steam but with none of the above mentioned items on board.

DISPLACEMENT is the amount of water displaced by a vessel floating in equilibrium in still water. The weight of water displaced is equal to the total weight of the vessel with everything on board and known as a displacement tonnage. If expressed in cubic feet it is known as the volume of displacement.

ELECTRICAL MEASURES

UNIT FOR THE MEASURE OF:

Volt..... Electromotive Force (E.M.F.) or Electrical Pressure = the electromotive force that steadily applied to a conductor whose resistance is one ohm will produce a current of one ampere.

Ohm..... Resistance = the resistance offered to the passage of a current of electricity by a thread of mercury 106 cm. long and 1 sq. mm. cross section at the temperature of melting ice.

Ampere..... Current = the current 1 volt will drive through 1 ohm.

Coulomb.....Quantity = 1 ampere flowing for 1 second of time.
 Microfarad....Capacity = one-millionth of a coulomb at 1 volt E.M.F.
 Joule.....Work = energy required to drive 1 ampere through 1 ohm = 0.73756 foot-pound.
 (Energy is the ability to do work).
 Watt.....Power = 1 joule acting for 1 second = 44 foot-pounds per minute.
 746 Watts = 1 horsepower.
 Henry.....Induction = when the E.M.F. in the circuit is 1 volt while the inducing current varies at the rate of 1 amp. per sec.

FISHERY REGULATIONS, GAME LAWS, CLOSE SEASONS, LICENCES, &c.

The Canadian Government has the sole legislative authority over the fisheries of Canada, both coastal and inland, under which laws are made for the protection and conservation of the fisheries in all the provinces. The provinces, however, have property rights in the non-tidal fisheries. Over a period of years various arrangements have been made between the Dominion and the provinces dividing the administrative (but not the legislative) authority over fisheries. Under these arrangements the Federal Government not only legislates but also administers the fisheries in all Canadian tidal waters except those of Quebec. In the non-tidal waters of Canada the Federal Government administers the fisheries of the Yukon, Northwest Territories, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. The non-tidal fisheries of the other provinces are administered by the provincial authorities who enforce, on behalf of the Federal Government, the Federal laws regulating the fisheries as such.

Fisheries in National Parks of Canada are under the administration of the National Parks Service of the Federal Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources, Ottawa.

For further information as to fisheries regulations apply to the Department of Fisheries, Ottawa, or, in the case of National Parks, to the National Parks Service, Ottawa. For information as to fishing licence fees in any area apply to the administrative authority indicated above.

GAME LAWS

Migratory birds are protected under a Federal law known as the Migratory Birds Convention Act, administered by the Canadian Wildlife Service, Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources, Ottawa, in conjunction with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and in co-operation with the provincial game authorities. This Act is based upon the Migratory Birds Treaty with the U.S.

With this exception, and except in National Parks, game laws are under the administration of the various provinces and territories.

A Federal law, the Game Export Act, passed in 1941, prohibits the export of game from any province or territory without permit from the province or territory. It has been proclaimed for all provinces and territories except Prince Edward Island.

Details as to closed seasons, licences, etc., are not given here, owing to the fact that regulations for the ensuing months are, in some cases, not available when this volume goes to press and where available are often subject to changes before the opening of the season.

Full information concerning the Federal laws mentioned above may be obtained by writing to the following address: Chief, Canadian Wildlife Service, Ottawa; and respecting provincial game laws by writing to the addresses given below:

CHARTERED BANKS

Chartered banks in Canada are incorporated by Special Act of the Canadian Parliament and governed by the Bank Act (chapter 48 of the Statutes of 1953-1954), which continues the charters in force until July 1st, 1964. The Act specifies the business and powers of the banks and the types of transactions in which they may legally engage.

Banks may make loans on many types of security, or without security. They are prohibited from lending money upon the security of shares of the capital stock of a bank, and they may not lend on mortgages and hypothecs except as authorized by or under the National Housing Act 1954, the Farm Improvement Loans Act and the Veterans Business and Professional Loans Act, although security upon real or immovable property may be taken as additional collateral for debts previously incurred by the bank.

A bank is not permitted to issue or re-issue its notes payable to bearer and intended for circulation.

TRUST COMPANIES AND LOAN COMPANIES IN CANADA

Trust Companies act as Executors, Trustees and Administrators under wills, or by appointment, as Trustees under marriage or other settlements, as Agent or Attorney in the management of estates of the living, as Guardian of minors or incapable persons, as Fiscal Agent for municipalities and companies, and, where so appointed, as Authorized Trustees in Bankruptcy. Some Trust Companies receive deposits and funds for guaranteed investments, and the loaning of such trust funds is restricted by law to securities authorized by the Trustee Act. The loaning of Company Funds is not so restricted.

The principal function of Loan Companies is the loaning of funds on first mortgage security, the money thus made available for development purposes being obtained mainly by the sale of debentures to the investing public and by Savings Department deposits. During and since the war years, however, there has been a substantial decrease in the amount of mortgages and real estate, and a corresponding increase in the percentage of Canadian Government bonds held.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT ANNUITIES

The Government Annuities System was set up in 1908 to encourage persons resident or domiciled in Canada to save for their old age by the purchase of deferred annuities and to enable older citizens to stretch out their accumulated savings by the purchase of immediate annuities. Canadian Government Annuities are payable for life and may be guaranteed for a period of years certain. Under deferred annuities, premiums are returned with interest if the annuitant dies before the annuity commences. The maximum amount of annuity obtainable is $1,200.00 a year. It may be obtained with an income reduction of $40.00 a month at 70, thus fitting in with the Old Age Security Act.

Employers may operate their pension plans through the purchase of Government Annuities for, or on behalf of, their employees. There are 1,014 such pension plans in operation, covering 177,379 working employees. In addition, there are 107,927 individual deferred annuity contracts in force. Annuity in the annual amount of $35,244,346 is being paid under 71,506 individual contracts and group certificates.

The premiums are moderate and annuities may be purchased through Canadian Government Annuities offices in 45 communities across Canada, or directly from Head Office.

For full particulars apply to C. R. McCord, Director of Annuities, Department of Labour, Ottawa.

POST OFFICES AND RAILROAD STATIONS IN THE DOMINION OF CANADA

Any Post Office is authorized to receive C.O.D. parcels and collect charges thereon, but only Offices printed in It can dispatch C.O.D. parcels. These Offices can also issue and pay Money Orders. The Offices marked * are Savings Bank Offices. † Places marked thus are not Post Offices. Capital letters on right of the Electoral District column indicate the several Provinces of the Dominion, thus:—A, Alberta; BC, British Columbia; M, Manitoba; N B, New Brunswick; Nd, Newfoundland; NS, Nova Scotia; NWT, Northwest Territories; O, Ontario; P E I, Prince Edward Island; Q, Quebec; S, Saskatchewan; Yu, Yukon.

The population of all cities, towns, and organized villages is shown to the right of places, according to the Census of 1951, final figures for the 1956 census being unavailable as yet. A large number of post offices and railway points are not incorporated, consequently no population figure is shown.

Elsewhere in this volume is a comparative table of census figures for cities and towns of 1000 or over.

Where a street address occurs in the centre column it indicates that the place name is the name of a sub-post office of a larger place, the street address being that of the post office.

The numbers and names placed opposite every place indicate the Railroad, Steamship, or Air-line on which the place or nearest rail, water, or air point is situated. See list of Railroads, Marine Shipping, and Air Lines on pages 78 to 87. For Express Companies, see pages 78 to 80.

Transient newspapers and periodicals include all newspapers and periodicals published in Canada, other than Canadian newspapers sent from the office of publication and British, Canadian and foreign newspapers posted by newsdealers. When addressed to any place within the Dominion, the United States or Mexico, and, when published in Canada, and addressed to any place in Great Britain, or to places within the Empire, France, Spain and North and South America they must be prepaid at the following rate by Postage Stamp:—

2c for the first four oz., and 1c for each additional 4 oz., or fraction of 4 oz. to each separate address.

To countries other than those mentioned above the rate is 2c for first 2 ozs. and 1c for each additional 2 oz., or fraction thereof, to each separate address.

Transient newspapers and periodicals not published in Canada are subject to the ordinary printed matter rate of 2c for first 2 ozs. and 1c for each additional 2 oz., or fraction thereof, to each separate address, for all countries except Canada, U.S.A. and Mexico.

7. Newspapers and Periodicals

Printed and published in Canada and posted from the office of publication.

Special rates of postage, dependent upon the frequency of publication and the circulation per issue, apply to mailings of authorized newspapers and periodicals made by publishers. For particulars, consult local Postmaster.

8. British and Foreign Newspapers posted by Newsdealers in Canada

British and foreign publications as well as Canadian publications, if authorized by the Department may be posted by newsdealers in Canada to subscribers in Canada at the rate of 4 cents per lb. They cannot however be posted at that rate for local delivery at places where there is a free letter carrier service. Newsdealers may also post recognized Canadian newspapers and periodicals to regular subscribers in Great Britain and places within the Empire, at the bulk rate of 4 cents per pound.

9. Books, Limits of Weight, etc.

A Book Packet may contain any number of separate books. Limit of weight for post is 6 lbs. 9 oz., but in case of a single book, a weight of 11 lbs. is allowed. Limit of size, (domestic)—in no case must the combined length and girth exceed 6 feet. For all other countries no packet may exceed 3 feet in the combined length, breadth, and depth, but the greatest dimension must not exceed 2 feet, unless in the form of a roll when the length and twice the diameter must not exceed 3 feet 3 inches, but the greatest dimension must not exceed 2 feet 8 inches.

Book packets must be put up in such a way as to admit of contents being easily examined and must not contain any letter or sealed inclosure.

Books for the use of the blind are allowed to pass free of postage.

THIRD CLASS MATTER

10. Printed Matter, Circulars, Samples, Miscellaneous Matter

Third class matter, described as under, may pass between places in the Dominion of Canada or outside of Canada upon prepayment of 2c for first 2 oz.; 1c each additional 2 oz.

REGULATIONS RE UNSEALED PACKAGES

No letter or other communication intended to serve the purpose of a letter may be sent or inclosed in any such package or thing mentioned, and the same must be sent in covers open at the ends or sides, or otherwise so put up as to admit of the contents being, if necessary, easily withdrawn for examination by the officers of the Post Office to ensure compliance with this provision (if inclosed in sealed envelopes notched at the ends or sides, or with the corners cut off, letter rate of postage will be charged).

EXCEPTION FOR U.S.A.

Articles of printed matter and parcel post addressed to all countries with the exception of Canada and the United States must continue to be sent as formerly in unsealed packages.

DEFINITION OF CIRCULARS

A circular may, without becoming liable to a higher rate of postage, have a written date and signature, and may have the name of the addressee repeated in writing inside. Reproductions or imitations of hand or typewritten matter, in order to be accepted as circulars, must be handed in at the post office wicket, in a number not less than twenty identical copies, separately addressed. Failure to comply with either of these conditions will subject the article to letter rate of postage.

LIMIT OF WEIGHT, ETC.

Printed or written requests for return are recognized on books, third class matter, samples and parcels of merchandise addressed to places within the Dominion, or in the United States and same will be returned direct to the sender, subject to the payment by the sender, on delivery to him through the Post Office, of the full amount of postage to which the article was in the first place liable, together with any charges rated thereon on account of any deficiency in the original prepayment.

Printed matter should be fully prepaid at the time of posting and will not be forwarded unless at least partly prepaid.

Samples of Merchandise and Goods not having saleable value and not exceeding 1 lb. in weight, may be posted in Canada, to be forwarded to any place in the Dominion, U.S.A., or Mexico, on prepayment of a rate of 2c for the first 2 oz. and 1c for each additional 2 ozs. or fraction thereof under the following regulations:

Other countries: length, breadth and depth combined, 3 ft. but greatest dimension must not exceed 2 ft. Roll length and twice diameter 3 ft. 3 in. but greatest dimension must not exceed 2 ft. 8 in.

Samples must be sent in covers open at the ends, so as to be easy of examination. Samples, however, of seeds, drugs, etc., which cannot be sent in open covers, may be enclosed in bags of linen, or such like material, fastened in such a manner that they may be readily opened.

There must be no writing upon or in any packet of samples, except the address of the person for whom it is intended, the address of the sender, a trade mark or number and the price of the articles, or such words as may be necessary to indicate precisely the origin and nature of the merchandise.

Articles of saleable value even when intended to serve as samples, or goods sent for sale or in execution of an order, however small the quantity may be, or any article sent by one private individual to another, which are not actually trade samples, are not admissible.

PREDICTIONS

Pictorial Predictions from the Past

by JOHN DURANT

In these pages you will see predictions (made years before their time) that have since come to pass. They foresaw such things as radio, TV, home air-conditioning, the automobile and super-highways – and even rain making from the clouds. It is an amusing pictorial collection of long-ago that looks into the future.

TRADE MARKS ACT

1-2 ELIZABETH II, CHAP. 49

A brief summary follows. A copy of the Act may be procured from The Registrar, Trade Marks Office, Ottawa Ont. It is suggested a competent attorney be consulted. The names of a number of such appear in these pages.

This Act came into force July 1, 1954, and repeals The Unfair Competition Act.

INTERPRETATION

In these regulations: "the Act" means the Trade Marks Act; "applicant" means the original applicant or the transferee last recognized under rule 53; "Journal" means the Trade Marks Journal; "trade mark agent" means a person whose name is on the register of trade mark agents.

TRADE MARK

Trade Mark means a mark that is used by a person for the purpose of distinguishing or so as to distinguish wares or services manufactured, sold, leased, hired or performed by him from those manufactured, sold, leased, hired or performed by others; a certification mark; a distinguishing guise, or a proposed trade mark.

CERTIFICATION MARKS

A certification mark may be adopted and registered only by a person who is not engaged in the manufacture, sale, leasing or hiring of wares or the performance of services such as those in association with which the certification mark is used.

DISTINGUISHING GUISE

(1) a shaping of wares or their containers, or
(2) a mode of wrapping or packaging wares, the appearance of which is used by a person for the purpose of distinguishing or so as to distinguish wares or services manufactured, etc., by him from those . . . of others.

CONFUSING MARK OR NAME

For the purposes of this Act a trade mark or trade name is confusing with another trade mark or trade name if the use of such first mentioned trade mark or trade name would cause confusion with such last mentioned trade mark or trade name in the manner and circumstances described in section 6.

UNFAIR COMPETITION

No person shall make a false or misleading statement tending to discredit the business, wares or services of a competitor; direct public attention to his wares, services or business in such a way as to cause or be likely to cause confusion in Canada, at the time he commenced so to direct attention to them, between his wares, services or business and the wares, services or business of another; pass off other wares or services as and for those ordered or requested; make use, in association with wares or services, of any description that is false in a material respect and likely to mislead the public as to (i) the character, quality, quantity or composition, (ii) the geographical origin, or (iii) the mode of the manufacture, production or performance of such wares or services; or do any other act or adopt any other business practice contrary to honest industrial or commercial usage in Canada.

PROHIBITED MARKS

No person shall adopt in connection with a business, as a trade mark or otherwise, any mark as designated in section 9 of the Act (q.v.).

REGISTRABLE TRADE MARKS

A trade mark is registrable, subject to certain conditions, if it is not

- a word that is primarily merely the name or the surname of an individual who is living or has died within the preceding thirty years;
- whether depicted, written or sounded, either clearly descriptive or deceptively misdescriptive in the English or French languages of the character or quality of the wares or services in association with which it is used or proposed to be used or of the conditions of or the persons employed in their production or of their place of origin;
- the name in any language of any of the wares or services in connection with which it is used or proposed to be used;
- confusing with a registered trade mark; or
- a mark of which the adoption is prohibited under the terms of the Act.

A trade mark that is not registrable by reason of paragraph (a) or (b) above is registrable if it has been so used in Canada by the applicant or his predecessor in title as to have become distinctive at the date of filing an application for its registration.

PERSONS ENTITLED TO REGISTER TRADE MARKS

Any applicant who has filed an application in accordance with section 29 for registration of a trade mark that is registrable and that he or his predecessor in title has used in Canada or made known in Canada or has duly registered in his country of origin, in association with wares or services is entitled, subject to this Act, to secure its registration in respect of such wares or services, unless at the date on which he or his predecessor in title first so used it or made it known it was confusing with

- a trade mark that had been previously used in Canada or made known in Canada by any other person;
- a trade mark in respect of which an application for registration had been previously filed in Canada by any other person; or
- a trade name that had been previously used in Canada by any other person.

REGISTER OF TRADE MARKS

There shall be kept under the supervision of the Registrar a register of trade marks and of transfers, disclaimers, amendments, judgments and orders relating to, and of registered users of, each registered trade mark.

The register shall show, with reference to each registered trade mark, the following:

- the date of registration;
- a summary of the application for registration;
- a summary of all documents deposited with such application or subsequently thereto and affecting the rights to such trade mark;
- particulars of each renewal;
- particulars of each change of name and address; and
- such other particulars as this Act or the regulations require to be entered thereon.

The register kept under The Unfair Competition Act, 1932, or the Unfair Competition Act, chapter 274 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, forms part of the register kept under this Act and, subject to a provision thereof, no entry made therein, if properly made according to the law in force at the time it was made, is subject to be expunged or amended only because it might not properly have been made pursuant to this Act.

Trade marks on the register at the date of the coming into force of The Unfair Competition Act, 1932, shall be treated as word marks or as design marks as defined in that Act according to the rules prescribed by the Act.

Trade marks registered under The Unfair Competition Act, 1932, or the Unfair Competition Act, chapter 274, revised 1952, shall in accordance with their registration, continue to be treated as word marks or design marks as defined in that Act.

APPLICATIONS FOR REGISTRATION

An applicant for the registration of a trade mark shall file with the Registrar an application containing

- a statement in ordinary commercial terms of the specific wares or services in association with which the mark has been or is proposed to be used;
- in the case of a trade mark that has been used in Canada, the date from which the applicant or his named predecessors in title, if any, have so used the trade mark in association with each of the general classes of wares or services described in the application;
- in the case of a trade mark that has not been used in Canada but is made known in Canada, the name of a country of the Union in which it has been used by the applicant or his named predecessors in title, if any, and the date from and the manner in which the applicant or such predecessors have made it known in Canada in association with each of the general classes of wares or services described in the application;

- (d) in the case of a trade mark that is the subject in another country of the Union of a registration or an application for registration by the applicant or his predecessor in title on which the applicant bases his right to registration, particulars of such application or registration and, if the trade mark has neither been used in Canada nor made known in Canada, the name of a country in which the trade mark has been used by the applicant or his named predecessor in title, if any, in association with each of the general classes of wares or services described in the application;
- (e) in the case of a proposed trade mark, where the application is not accompanied by an application for registration of a person as a registered user, a statement that the applicant intends to use such trade mark in Canada;
- (f) in the case of a certification mark, particulars of the defined standard that the use of the mark is intended to indicate and a statement that the applicant is not engaged in the manufacture, sale, leasing or hiring of wares or the performance of services such as those in association with which the certification mark is used;
- (g) the address of the applicant's principal office or place of business in Canada, if any, and if the applicant has no office or place of business in Canada, the address of his principal office or place of business abroad and the name and address in Canada of some person or firm to whom any notice in respect of the application or registration may be sent, and upon whom service of any proceedings in respect of the application or registration may be given or served with the same effect as if they had been given to or served upon the applicant or registrant himself.
- (h) unless the application is for the registration only of a word or words not depicted in a special form, a drawing of the trade mark and such number of accurate representations of the trade mark as may be prescribed; and
- (i) a statement that the applicant is satisfied that he is entitled to use the trade mark in Canada in association with the wares or services described in the application.

REGISTRATION OF TRADE MARKS

When an application for registration of a trade mark other than a proposed trade mark is allowed the Registrar shall thereupon register the trade mark and issue a certificate of its registration.

When an application for registration of a proposed trade mark is allowed, the Registrar shall give notice to the applicant accordingly and shall register the trade mark and issue a certificate of its registration upon receipt of a declaration that the applicant, his successor in title or a person approved as a registered user under subsection (7) of section 49 has commenced the use of the trade mark in Canada in association with the wares or services specified in the application.

If the applicant for registration of a proposed trade mark fails to file the declaration referred to in subsection (2) within six months after the notice by the Registrar referred to in subsection (2), his application shall be deemed to be abandoned.

Registration of a trade mark shall be made in the name of the applicant or his transferee; the day on which registration is made shall be entered on the register, and the registration takes effect on that day.

AMENDMENT OF THE REGISTER

The Registrar may, on application by the registered owner of a trade mark made in the prescribed manner, make certain amendments to the register and justify an extension of time.

TRANSFER

A trade mark, whether registered or unregistered, is transferable, and deemed always to have been transferable, either in connection with or separately from the goodwill of the business and in respect of either all or some of the wares or services in association with which it has been used.

REGISTERED USER

An application for the registration, under a specified section of the Act, of a person as a registered user of a registered trade mark shall be made by that person and the owner of the trade mark, and shall include the address of the proposed registered user's principal office or place of business in Canada, if any, and if the proposed registered user has no principal office or place of business in Canada, the address of his principal office or place of business abroad and the name and address in Canada of some person or firm to whom any notice in respect of his application or registration may be sent, and upon whom service of any proceedings in respect of his application or registration may be given or served with the same effect as if they had been given to or served upon him.

PATENTS IN CANADA

The Patent Act, Chap. 203, RS., 1952.

A synopsis of the principal provisions of The Patent Act are given below:—

For a copy of the Act apply to the Commissioner of Patents, Ottawa, who receives all applications and has charge of all records.

As it is difficult for an applicant to properly comply with the regulations of the Patent Office unless he is conversant with the process of obtaining a patent, any person contemplating obtaining a patent is advised to consult one of the patent solicitors whose cards appear in this volume.

DEFINITION OF INVENTION

The Act defines "invention" as any new and useful art, process, machine, manufacture or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement in the same.

WHO MAY OBTAIN PATENTS

Subject to the various provisions of the Act, any inventor or legal representative of an inventor, of an invention which was:

(a) not known or used by others before he invented it, and

(b) not described in any patent or in any publication printed in Canada or in any other country more than two years before presentation of the petition, and

(c) not in public use or on sale in Canada for more than two years prior to his application in Canada may obtain a patent granting him an exclusive property in such invention

Any inventor or legal representative of an inventor who applies in Canada for a patent for an invention for which application for patent has been made in any other country by such inventor or his legal representative before the filing of the application in Canada, shall not be entitled to obtain in Canada a patent for that invention unless his application in Canada is filed:

(a) before issue of any patent to such inventor or his legal representative for the same invention in any other country; or

(b) if a patent has issued in any other country within twelve months after the filing of the first application by such inventor or his legal representative for patent for such invention in any other country.

No patent shall issue for an invention which has an illicit object in view, or for any mere scientific principle or abstract theorem.

APPLICATIONS FOR PATENTS

An applicant for a patent shall state in his application, if resident in Canada, his address in Canada. If not so resident, the name and address of some person resident in Canada who has been nominated to represent the applicant or patentee for all purposes of the Act including the service of any proceedings taken under any provision of the Act. This representative may be changed if necessary.

Each application for a patent shall be completed and prepared for examination within twelve months after the filing of the application, and in default thereof, or upon failure of the applicant to prosecute the same within six months after any examiner's action thereon of which notice shall have been given to the applicant, such application shall be deemed to have been abandoned, but it may be reinstated within twelve months after the date on which it was deemed to have been abandoned, if the failure to prosecute the application within the time specified was not reasonably avoidable. An application so reinstated shall retain its original filing date.

TREATY OR CONVENTION RIGHTS

Section 29 (1), provides that an application for a patent filed in Canada by any person entitled to protection under the terms of any treaty or convention relating to patents to which Canada is a party who has, or whose agent or other legal representative has, previously regularly filed an application for a patent for the same invention in any other country which by treaty, convention or law affords similar privilege to citizens of Canada, shall have the same force and effect as the same application would have if filed in Canada on the date on which the application for patent for the same invention was first filed in such other country, provided the application in this country is filed within twelve months from the earliest date on which any such application was filed in such other country or from the thirteenth day of June, 1923.

No patent shall be granted on an application for a patent for an invention which had been patented or described in a patent or publication printed in Canada or any other country more than two years before the date of the actual filing of the application in Canada, or which had been in public use or on sale in Canada for more than two years prior to such filing.

JOINT APPLICATIONS

Section 33 (1), new in 1947, provides that:

(1) Where an invention is made by two or more inventors, and one of them refuses to make application for a patent or his whereabouts cannot be ascertained after diligent enquiry, the other inventor or his legal representative may make application, and a patent may be granted in the name of the inventor who makes the application, on satisfying the Commissioner that the joint inventor has refused to make application or that his whereabouts cannot be ascertained after diligent enquiry.

Where an applicant has agreed to assign a patent when granted to another person or to a joint applicant and refuses to proceed with the application; or where disputes arise between joint applicants as to proceeding with the application, the Commissioner may grant a patent to either one of the parties. Procedure is also outlined when a joint applicant retires or is added.

ASSIGNMENTS—APPLICANTS NOT INVENTORS

A patent may be granted to any person to whom an inventor has assigned or bequeathed by his last will his right to obtain it and the assignee may register such an assignment, after which the application cannot be withdrawn without the consent of the assignee.

IMPROVEMENTS MAY BE PATENTED

Any improvement to a patented invention may be patented.

TERM OF PATENT

The term limit for the duration of patents issued by the Patent Office under this Act is 17 years from the date on which the patent is granted and issued but if the application for the patent was filed prior to August 1, 1935, the term is 18 years from the date on which the patent is granted and issued.

REFUSAL OF PATENTS

Where a patent is refused, the applicant may any time within 6 months appeal the decision to the Exchequer Court. (Sec. 44)

GOVERNMENT OWNED PATENTS

Sections 20, 21, and 22 are new in 1947, dealing with secret patents and patents relating to Atomic Energy. Section 20 (1) provides that:

20 (1) Any officer, servant or employee of the Crown or of a corporation which is an agent or servant of the Crown, who, acting within the scope of his duties and employment as such, invents any invention in instruments or munitions of war, shall, if so required by the Minister of National Defence, assign to such minister on behalf of Her Majesty all the benefits of the invention and of any patent obtained or to be obtained for the invention; and any other person who invents any such invention may so assign to such minister on behalf of Her Majesty all the benefits of the invention and of any patent obtained or to be obtained for the invention.

Provision is made that an inventor, other than those mentioned in the preceding section, shall be entitled to compensation. Persons making assignments or having knowledge thereof are deemed to have information entrusted in confidence. Other provisions deal with secrecy. Subsection (15) provides that:

The Governor in Council, if satisfied that an invention relating to any instrument or munition of war, described in any specified application for patent not assigned to the Minister of National Defence, is vital to the defence of Canada and that the publication of a patent therefor should be prevented in order to preserve the safety of the State, may order that such invention and application and all the documents relating thereto shall be treated for all purposes of this section as if the invention had been assigned or agreed to be assigned to the Minister of National Defence.

INFRINGEMENT

Anyone infringing a patent shall be liable to the patentee and to all persons claiming under him for all damages sustained by the patentee or by any such person by reason of such infringement; and the Court may issue an injunction restraining the opposite party from the further use, sale, etc., of the article.

Provision is made that a person who, previous to the granting of the patent has purchased, constructed or acquired any invention shall have the right of using and selling the article, etc.

IMPEACHMENT

If any person has reasonable cause to believe that any process used or proposed to be used or any article made, used or sold or proposed to be made, used or sold by him might be alleged by any patentee to constitute an infringement of an exclusive property or privilege granted thereby, he may bring an action in the Exchequer Court of Canada against the patentee for a declaration that such process or article does not or would not constitute an infringement of such exclusive property or privilege.

PRIORITY OF INVENTIONS

No patent or claim in a patent shall be declared invalid or void on the ground that, before the invention therein defined was made by the inventor by whom the patent was applied for it had already been known or used by some other inventor, unless it is established either that,

(a) before the date of the application for the patent such other person had disclosed or used the invention in such manner that it had become available to the public; or that

(b) such other person had, before the issue of the patent, made an application for patent in Canada upon which conflict proceedings should have been directed; or that

(c) such other person had at any time made an application in Canada which by virtue of section twenty nine of this Act had the same force and effect as if it had been filed in Canada before the issue of the patent and upon which conflict proceedings should properly have been directed had it been so filed.

PATENTED ARTICLE TO BE MARKED OR STAMPED

Every patentee under this Act shall, if possible, stamp or engrave on each patented article sold or offered for sale by him notice of the year of the date of the patent applying to such article, thus—Patented, 1935, or as the case may be.

When, from the nature of any patented article it cannot be so stamped or engraved the patentee shall, if possible, affix to it, or to every package wherein one or more of such articles is or are enclosed, a label marked with the like notice.

When any patented article or material is, from its nature or character such that it cannot be so stamped or engraved and cannot, reasonably, be packaged or labelled the patentee shall, in all descriptive or advertising matter published by him and relating to such patented article or material, insert the like notice.

ABUSE OF RIGHTS UNDER PATENTS

NOT WORKING A PATENTED INVENTION

The Attorney General of Canada or any person interested may at any time after the expiration of three years from the date of the grant of a patent apply to the Commissioner alleging in the case of that patent that there has been an abuse of the exclusive rights thereunder and asking for relief under this Act.

The exclusive rights under a patent shall be deemed to have been abused in any of the following circumstances:—

(a) If the patented invention (being one capable of being worked within Canada) is not being worked within Canada on a commercial scale, and no satisfactory reason can be given for such non-working;

Provided that, if an application is presented to the Commissioner on this ground, and the Commissioner is of opinion that the time which has elapsed since the grant of the patent has by reason of the nature of the invention or for any other cause been insufficient to enable the invention to be worked within Canada on a commercial scale, the Commissioner may make an order adjourning the application for such period as will in his opinion be sufficient for that purpose.

(b) If the working of the invention within Canada on a commercial scale is being prevented or hindered by the importation from abroad of the patented article by the patentee or persons claiming under him, or by persons directly or indirectly purchasing from him, or by other persons against whom the patentee is not taking or has not taken any proceedings for infringement;

(c) If the demand for the patented article in Canada, is not being met to an adequate extent and on reasonable terms;

(d) If, by reason of the refusal of the patentee to grant a licence or licences upon reasonable terms, the trade or industry of Canada or the trade of any person or class of persons trading in Canada, or the establishment of any new trade or industry in Canada, is prejudiced and it is in the public interest that a licence or licences should be granted;

(e) If any trade or industry in Canada, or any person or class of persons engaged therein, is unfairly prejudiced by the conditions attached by the patentee, whether before or after the passing of this Act, to the purchase, hire, licence, or use of the patented article, or to the using or working of the patented process;

(f) If it is shown that the existence of the patent, being a patent for an invention relating to a process involving the use of materials not protected by the patent or for an invention relating to a substance produced by such a process, has been utilized by the patentee so as unfairly to prejudice in Canada the manufacture, use or sale of any such materials.

LICENSE WHERE INVENTION NOT BEING WORKED

If a case of abuse is established the Commissioner may order a grant to an applicant of a licence on such terms as the Commissioner may think expedient; or if he is satisfied that an invention is not being worked on a commercial scale within Canada, he may under certain circumstances order the grant of an exclusive licence to an applicant able to provide capital for the working of the patent; or he may order the patent to be revoked.

In granting an exclusive licence a royalty shall be arranged payable to the patentee.

CAVEATS

Any intending applicant for a patent who has not yet perfected his invention and is in fear of being despoiled of his idea, may file in the Patent Office a document setting forth a description of his invention so far as it has proceeded, with or without plans, at his own will, and the Commissioner, on payment of the prescribed fee shall cause that document, which shall be called a "caveat," to be preserved in secrecy with the exception that he shall deliver copies thereof whenever required by the applicant or by any judicial tribunal. The secrecy of the document shall cease when the applicant obtains a patent for his invention.

If application is made by any other person for a patent for any invention with which such "caveat" may in any respect interfere the Commissioner shall forthwith give notice of such application by mail to the person who has filed such "caveat", and such person shall, within three months after the date of mailing the notice, if he wishes to avail himself of the "caveat", file his petition and take the other steps necessary on an application for a patent, and if, in the opinion of the Commissioner, the applications are conflicting, like proceedings may be had in all respects as are by this Act provided in the case of conflicting applications.

Unless the person filing a "caveat" makes application within one year from such filing the Commissioner shall be relieved from the obligation of giving notice and the "caveat" shall thereafter remain as a simple matter of proof as to novelty or priority of invention, if required.

PATENTS ISSUED OUT OF CANADA

The Commissioner shall upon the request of any person who states in writing the name of the inventor, if available, the title of the invention and the number and date of a patent said to have been granted in another country inform such person whether an application for a patent of the same invention is pending in Canada or not.

JURISDICTION OF EXCHEQUER COURT

54. The Exchequer Court of Canada shall have jurisdiction, on the application of the Commissioner or of any person interested, to order that any entry in the records of the Patent Office relating to the title to a patent be varied or expunged.

PATENT ATTORNEYS

A register of attorneys shall be kept in the Patent Office containing the names of all attorneys entitled to represent applicants for patents

THE CANADIAN LAW OF COPYRIGHT

by HAROLD G. FOX, Q.C.

WHAT IS COPYRIGHT? Copyright, as its name implies, is merely the right to restrain copying. By the terms of the Canadian Copyright Act, which came into force on January 1st, 1924, copyright subsists in every original literary, dramatic, musical, and artistic work. The work must be original and its author must, at the date of its making, be a British subject, a citizen or subject of a foreign country which has adhered to the Berne Convention, or be resident within the British Dominions; and if in the case of a published work the work was first published within British dominions or in a country which has adhered to the Berne Convention. A work is deemed to be first published in such a country if published there and in some other country simultaneously. The last word is interpreted as allowing fourteen days interval between the publication in the two countries.

Publication means the issue of copies to the public. It does not include the performance in public of a dramatic or musical work, the delivery in public of a lecture, the exhibition in public of an artistic work, or the construction of an architectural work of art. Nor does the issue of photographs and engravings of works of sculpture and architectural works of art constitute publication of such works.

Copyright is defined by the Act as the sole right to produce or reproduce the work or any substantial part thereof in any material form whatsoever, to perform, or in the case of a lecture to deliver, the work or any substantial part thereof in public; if the work is unpublished, to publish the work or any substantial part thereof. Copyright as conferred by the statute includes the sole right to produce, reproduce, perform, or publish translations of the work, the sole right to convert from a dramatic work to a non-dramatic work, to convert from a non-dramatic work or an artistic work to a dramatic work, by way of performance in public or otherwise, to make records, perforated rolls, cinematograph films or other contrivances by means of which the work may be mechanically performed or delivered; to reproduce, adapt and publicly present the work by cinematograph, to communicate it by radio communication, and to authorize any of these acts.

ORIGINALITY. The originality required by the statute relates to the expression of thought. The form in which the work is clothed should be original although the idea or concept upon which the work is based need have no originality whatsoever. Originality in copyright law means that the work must be in a form created by its author and must not be copied from any other work. An illustration of this principle may be furnished in simple terms by reference to copyright in paintings. An artist may paint a particular scene, let us say, in the Laurentian mountains. A second artist may set up his easel on exactly the same spot as the first artist and may paint exactly the same scene, as he sees it. Whatever similarity the two works may have is irrelevant. The second work is an original work and entitled to copyright. If, however, the second artist does not go to the scene itself, but paints his canvas from a view of the first artist's canvas, the second artist not only infringes the first artist's copyright, but is not entitled to copyright in his own work. The same principle, of course, applies to photographs.

In order to understand this principle it will be useful to refer to copyright in compilations and anthologies. An author may decide to write, as an example, a history of the Roman Empire. He cannot know that history other than by reading the sources, original and secondary. From these he compiles a work based upon the works of others, but to which he has lent an original character by his own mental labours, and is therefore entitled to copyright in that work. A second author may go to the same original and secondary sources and compile a like work. He is entitled to copyright in it and does not infringe the copyright of the first compiler provided he uses the first compiler's work fairly and only for checking the accuracy of his own without copying any substantial part of it.

LITERARY WORKS. Literary works are those which are expressed in print or writing such as books, maps, plans, tables and compilations. Copyright in a work includes the title of the work if that title is original and distinctive, but the mere taking of a title apart from any substantial part of a work does not constitute infringement. It is only when the title has become so far identified with a work as to mean that work and that work alone in the minds of the public, that such a taking can be restrained on the ground that the second work is passed off on the public as and for the first work.

DRAMATIC WORKS. Dramatic works include any piece for recitation, choreographic work, or entertainment in dumb show, the scenic arrangement or acting form of which is fixed in writing or otherwise, and any cinematograph production where the arrangement or acting form or the combination of incidents represented give the work an original character. Copyright subsists not only in the actual words of the work but in the dramatic incidents created. In order to be protected as a dramatic work there must be some dramatic action. On this basis a dance step or piece of dramatic action may be protected by a written description of the acts of the performer. In that case there is a double copyright, one in the writing itself as a literary work and the other in the reproduction of the dance or drama, which is thus fixed in writing.

MUSICAL WORKS. Musical works are defined as any combination of melody and harmony, or either of them, printed, reduced to writing or otherwise graphically produced or reproduced. There is, therefore, no copyright in an impromptu until its notation has been fixed in writing or print by the composer. There then exists the right to restrain either its copying in printed form or its public performance.

ARTISTIC WORKS. Artistic works include works of painting, drawing, sculpture and artistic craftsmanship, and architectural works of art and engravings and photographs. Engravings include etchings, lithographs, woodcuts, prints and other similar works not being photographs. An architectural work means any building or structure having an artistic character or design in respect of such character or design, or any model for such building or structure, but the protection is confined to the artistic character and design and does not extend to processes or methods of construction.

INDUSTRIAL DESIGNS. Certain works fall within the definition of artistic works but will not be subject to copyright owing to certain conditions. These are such works as are designs capable of being registered under the Industrial Design and Union Label Act, and used or intended to be used as models or patterns to be multiplied by any industrial process. Designs which do not meet that definition are not industrial designs but artistic works and are subject to artistic copyright. A design is deemed to be used as a model or pattern to be multiplied by an industrial process when it is reproduced or intended to be reproduced in more than fifty single copies not together constituting a set or is to be applied to (1) printed paper hangings, (2) carpets, floor cloths or oil cloths manufactured or sold in lengths or pieces, (3) textile piece goods or textile goods manufactured or sold in lengths or pieces or (4) lace, not made by hand.

LITERARY OR ARTISTIC MERIT. In no case need the subject of copyright possess any degree of literary or artistic merit. It would be highly improper if copyright were to depend on the opinion of any court as to the presence or absence of such an elusive quality, depending solely on individual taste, value, or discretion. The writer of doggerel verse or the mystery novel is entitled to the same copyright as the winner of the Nobel prize in literature, and the author of the comic strip cartoon receives no less protection than do those whose works are hung in the galleries of the nation. In this regard the applicable maxim is De gustibus non disputandum.

IMMORAL WORKS. There is one minor qualification to the above remarks. The courts will not protect immoral, indecent, obscene, or blasphemous works. What falls within the scope of these terms is impossible of definition and must depend upon the susceptibilities and sensibilities of any court adjudicating upon the matter. Thus, thirty years ago Elinor Glynn's Three Weeks was held to be an obscene work disintituled to protection. Within the present decade Judge Wolsey, in the United States, promulgated his now famous decision holding that Joyce's Ulysses was not an immoral work. Tempora mutantur nos et nulumur in illis! It may safely be said in principle that a work which is not purely pornographic but is honest work endeavouring to create an atmosphere, to depict life or to delineate the author's or artist's concept of things as they are or ought to be, would not be held to be immoral and would be entitled to copyright.

OWNERSHIP OF COPYRIGHT. The author of the work is, in general, the first owner of the copyright. The author is the person who actually writes, draws, paints, carves, models, fabricates, or composes the work, unless he is a mere amanuensis or workman. A person who suggests the idea of a work is not its author or even joint author. A ghost writer, therefore, is the author of the biography which he writes and the possibly famous person of whom he writes and who supplies the facts and recollections upon which the biography is based is not entitled to any share in the copyright—unless, of course, there is an agreement to the contrary. It should always be remembered that copyright is a property right and, therefore, contracts can be made respecting its ownership and disposal.

A work of joint authorship is one produced by the collaboration of two or more authors in which the contribution of one author is not distinct from the contribution of the other author or authors. Joint authors, in general, own copyright in equal shares.

In the case of photographs the person or corporation owning the original negative from which the photograph is made is deemed to be the author and therefore the owner of the copyright. The same principle applies in the case of the owner of the original plate from which any records, perforated rolls and other contrivances for mechanically reproducing sounds were derived.

Where a plate or other original of an engraving, photograph or portrait is ordered and made for valuable consideration and pursuant to the order, then, in the absence of agreement to the contrary, the person giving the order and not the author of the work is the first owner of copyright. This is an important principle. In the case of a portrait painter, the subject who gives the order and pays for the portrait receives not only the finished portrait for which he pays, but the copyright in his portrait as well. In the case of photographs the same principle applies. But where the photographer takes photographs on speculation and then endeavours to sell them to the subject, it is the photographer who owns the copyright.

Where the author of the work is in the employment of some other person under a contract of service or apprenticeship and the work was made in the course of his employment by that person, the person by whom the author was employed is, in the absence of any agreement to the contrary, the first owner of the copyright. Where, therefore, a writer on a newspaper or magazine holds a position on the staff of that publication for which he is paid a salary, and writes, let us say, feature articles, the copyright in those articles belongs to the owner of the publication. If, however, an independent or free lance writer is retained to write a series of articles for which the owner of the publication contracts to pay him a certain sum of money, the copyright in those articles belongs to the writer and not to the owner of the publication, because the writer is under a contract for service and not a contract of service.

Where an article or other contribution to a newspaper, magazine or similar periodical, is written by a staff writer acting in the course of his employment and there is no agreement to the contrary, although the copyright in the article resides in the owner of the publication, the writer nevertheless has reserved to him a right to restrain its publication otherwise than as part of a newspaper, magazine or similar periodical. Thus a staff writer may contribute to his newspaper or magazine a series of twenty or thirty articles. It is then decided to publish those articles in book form. The owner of the publication cannot publish without the author's consent, and the author, not being the owner of the copyright, cannot publish without the consent of the owner of the publication. The only way publication can occur is by mutual agreement, and in such case it is presumed that the author will make his bargain to his best advantage.

There is a distinct cleavage between the intangible right known to the law as copyright, and the ownership of the physical embodiment in which that right resides. This is of particular importance in the case of artistic works. Many painters and sculptors are unaware of the fact that when they sell one of their works they do not necessarily part with the right to reproduce it or, in other words, to issue copies of it to the public. It must also be said that many purchasers of artistic works, particularly art galleries, national and otherwise, take an arbitrary view of the rights they acquire when they purchase an artistic work. Copyright is something entirely apart from the piece of canvas and pigment composing a painting and from the mass of bronze, marble or other material forming a work of sculpture. The sale of the physical object and the transfer of property therein do not of themselves transfer copyright. Copyright is a separate and distinctly existing right and can only be transferred by contract, express or implied. For this reason authors, artists, composers, sculptors and other creators of original works would be well advised to ensure that every sale of their works is made in accordance with a written memorandum. If such a procedure were generally adopted the present habit indulged in by art galleries of selling photographs and other reproductions of artistic works in their possession without compensation to the artist would promptly cease.

But, since the practice of selling photographs is to the publicity advantage of both gallery and artist, artists would be well advised to enter into an agreement with galleries to continue to issue photographs on a royalty basis.

TERM OF COPYRIGHT. The general term of copyright in works published and performed in public during the author's lifetime is the life of the author and fifty years after his death. In the case of a literary, dramatic or musical work or an engraving in which copyright subsists at the time of the death of the author, but which has not been published nor performed, nor in the case of a lecture, been delivered in public before that date, copyright subsists till publication or performance or delivery in public, whichever may first happen, and for a term of fifty years thereafter. It will thus be seen that copyright in unpublished works may extend almost indefinitely.

In case of works of joint authorship copyright subsists during the life of the author who dies last and fifty years after his death. The term of copyright in photographs is fifty years from the making of the original negative. In the case of records, perforated rolls, and other mechanical contrivances for the reproduction of sound, the term is fifty years from the making of the original matrix, plate, or negative.

Copyright in Government publications is fifty years from the date of first publication. This term is provided by statute, but one would be well advised to remember that the Crown may well claim a prerogative right of copyright in perpetuity.

In all cases of published works the term of copyright is subject to a statutory right for any person to reproduce the work on statutory terms at any time after the expiration of twenty-five years or, in the case of works in which copyright subsisted on June 4, 1921, thirty years, from the death of the author. The statutory terms require notice of intention to publish and the payment of royalties calculated at 10 per cent of the published price of the work.

ASSIGNMENT AND LICENCE. Creators of original works may assign their copyright either wholly or partially and either generally or subject to territorial limitations and either for the whole term of the copyright or for any part thereof, and may grant any interest in the right by way of licence. No such assignment or grant is, however, valid unless it is in writing signed by the owner of the copyright or by his duly authorized agent. The owner of copyright may, therefore, split the right into as many component parts as he desires. He may assign or license the right to publish, to produce or to reproduce his work on one or a million occasions. He may allow reproduction in one or a dozen countries or in one or a thousand cities. He may assign or license to different persons the right to reproduce a work of art by photography and by colour process. He may license its reproduction to one person for a calendar and to another for a Christmas card. In fact there is hardly any limit that can be placed upon the dealings which a copyright owner may have in his copyright if he can find someone who desires a particular part of the right and is willing to pay for it.

Where part of the copyright is assigned, the assignee becomes the owner of that part of the right. If, therefore, the composer of a musical work assigns the right of public performance, the assignee can restrain everybody else from performing the work in public. He cannot, however, restrain the author or the person to whom the author may assign that particular part of the copyright from issuing printed copies of the musical score to the public.

An assignee or licensee is wise to register his assignment or licence in the Copyright Office at Ottawa.

DROIT MORAL. The moral right of an author is recognized by the Canadian Copyright Act which provides that, independently of the copyright and even after the assignment, he shall have the right to claim authorship of the work and to restrain distortion, mutilation or other modification in the work which would be prejudicial to his honour or reputation. The statute does not say who is to decide what amount or what quality of distortion, mutilation or modification would be prejudicial to an author's honour or reputation. This is a subject which has received wide treatment in the European and South American countries. There is no corresponding section in the British Copyright Act and, despite the quarter of a century during which the section has found its place in the Canadian statute, no case has been heard by the courts in which this section was invoked. It is interesting to speculate whether the reason for such lack of interest in the section lies in the honesty and integrity of Canadian publishers, performers and owners of other reproducing media or in the apathy and indifference of Canadian authors, artists, and composers.

FORMALITIES. Copyright under the Canadian Copyright Act is automatic and the author of a work need comply with no formality whatsoever in order that he shall possess copyright in his work. The statute contains provisions for registration of copyright but these are permissive only and no registration need take place. There is one minor point on which registration might possibly benefit the author but it is involved in such legal technicalities that it need not be discussed further. It may safely be said that an author is perfectly protected if he entirely neglects to register his copyright.

BERNE CONVENTION. Once a work is made, copyright subsists not only in Canada but throughout the British Commonwealth and all countries which have adhered to the Berne Convention. By arrangement with the United States, Canadian authors are entitled to apply for copyright in that country but their copyright is not automatic. It must be registered and all other requirements of the United States Copyright Act complied with including publication within the United States if the work is a literary work in the English language.

INFRINGEMENT. Infringement consists in doing without the consent of the owner of the copyright anything the sole right to do which is by the Copyright Act conferred on the owner of the copyright. It will thus be seen that it is infringement, without the consent of the owner of the copyright, to issue copies of a work to the public, to perform it in public, to reproduce it in any manner, to make a translation of it, to convert a novel into a dramatic work, to convert a dramatic work into a novel, and so on. But it must be emphasized that copyright is not an absolute monopoly, but is only the right to restrain copying, and if some other person produces a similar work independently of the owner of the copyright, there will be no infringement.

Importation of infringing works constitutes infringement as well as their being made in the country. There are effective provisions in the Copyright Act and in the Customs Tariff Act for preventing importation of infringing copies.

The making of only one copy of a work will constitute infringement and it need not be an exact copy. A colourable imitation is sufficient. There must, however, be a substantial part of the work taken or a substantial part of the work performed in public. In one case the reproduction of the march Colonel Bogey consisting of so much as was played in twenty seconds was held to be an infringement. In another case dealing with the musical work Walking my Baby back Home sufficient was played to allow the court to recognize the tune, although the evidence was so conflicting that the plaintiff claimed that thirty-two bars had been played and the defendant claimed only five bars had been played.

There are specific provisions relative to infringement in cases of making records and other mechanical contrivances for the reproduction of sounds. They are somewhat complicated but, in general, they provide that the making of such contrivances shall not constitute infringement if similar contrivances have previously been made by, or with the consent of, the owner of the copyright, and the person who makes them gives notice of his intention to make them and pays the stipulated royalty of two cents per perforated roll or playing surface.

LAWFUL USE OF COPYRIGHT. By statute there are certain lawful uses of copyright and no person is permitted to complain if the use of his work is made under the following circumstances:

1. Any fair dealing with any work for the purpose of private study, research, criticism, review or newspaper summary. The use must be fair. Thus in one Canadian case an entire article was printed in a newspaper as the basis upon which a criticism was printed following it. The court held that this was not fair dealing.

2. The author of an artistic work who is not the owner of copyright therein may use any mould, cast, sketch, plan, model or study made by him for the purpose of the work, provided that he does not thereby repeat or imitate the main design of the work.

3. Paintings, drawings, engravings, or photographs may be made of a work of sculpture or artistic craftsmanship if permanently situated in a public place or building. The same thing may be done in connection with any architectural work of art so long as such drawings, etc., are not in the nature of architectural drawings or plans.

4. Short passages from copyright published literary works which are not themselves published for the use of schools may be published in a collection mainly composed of non-copyright matter bona fide intended for the use of schools and so described in the title and in any advertisements issued by the publisher. But no more than two of such passages from works by the same author may be published by the same publisher within five years and in each case the source from which such passages are taken must be acknowledged.

5. A newspaper may publish a report of a lecture delivered in public, unless the report is prohibited by a conspicuous notice affixed before and maintained during the lecture.

6. The reading or recitation in public by one person of any reasonable extract from any published work. Note the limitation to "one person." This precludes the public performance by more than one actor of even a small scene in a dramatic work.

7. Any musical work may be performed without motive of gain by the directors at any agricultural, agricultural-industrial exhibition or fair which received a grant from or is held under Dominion, provincial or municipal authority.

8. Any church, college or school and any religious, charitable or fraternal organization may perform any musical work without payment if done in furtherance of a religious, educational, or charitable object.

9. A report of an address of a political nature delivered at a public meeting may be published in a newspaper.

REMEDIES FOR INFRINGEMENT. In case of infringement the owner of copyright has two remedies. He may sue the infringer in the civil courts for damages incurred by him, as well as the profits made by the infringer, and may ask for the delivery to him of all infringing copies. Such an action is to be brought within three years after the infringement takes place. In addition, the owner of the copyright may prosecute the infringer criminally for his acts. This should give the copyright owner little, if any, personal satisfaction and no gain would accrue to him other than the satisfaction of personal animus. The first remedy is the proper one and is that which ought to be followed.

WORKS MADE BEFORE 1924. Copyright as we now know it came into effect with the new Canadian Copyright Act on January 1, 1924. But copyright subsisted in many works in Canada at that date, and in such cases they received copyright under the new Act by virtue of a special transition section. It would be difficult to express in any moderate space the principles upon which copyright subsisted in Canada prior to 1924. There was in existence a Canadian Copyright Act prior to that date which required registration and any work registered under that Act would naturally be the subject of copyright. But copyright might also have subsisted in certain works prior to 1924 which were not registered under that Act. We may state the position shortly as follows:

1. Copyright subsisted at the effective date (January 1, 1924) in all works then unpublished whatever their nature.

2. Literary works published in the British Dominions were the subject of copyright whether registered or unregistered either in Canada or at Stationers' Hall in London.

3. Dramatic works were protected as literary works in their printed form, but so far as their performing right was concerned copyright subsisted during the life of the author and seven years after his death, or forty-two years from the date of first performance of the work. If the work fell within that definition on the effective date copyright subsisted in that work provided it had not been first performed in a foreign country to which the Imperial International Copyright Act did not extend.

4. Musical works enjoyed copyright in printed form as literary works, whether registered or unregistered and so far as concerned their performing right were treated the same as dramatic works.

5. Artistic works were protected prior to 1924 only if they were registered under the then existing Canadian Copyright Act.

6. Mechanical contrivances for reproducing sounds, if made before January 1, 1924, are by special provision treated as if the present Copyright Act had been in force at the time they were made.

The above is not intended to be an exhaustive statement of the law of copyright prior to the commencement of the present Copyright Act. It is, however, of the utmost importance when considering works in existence before January 1, 1924 to understand what was their status at that effective date because the new Act contains a transition section which conferred copyright under the new Act upon all works in which copyright subsisted at the effective date. The first thing to decide, therefore, is whether a work was or was not the subject of copyright on January 1, 1924. If it was, no matter what the nature or term of the copyright to which it was then entitled, it is now entitled, generally speaking, to copyright as established by the new Copyright Act.

It is a matter of no little difficulty to endeavour to explain the principles of the law of Copyright within the short compass of this article. Many subjects have obviously been left untouched and there will naturally remain many pitfalls for the unwary. The intention of this article is to give to the author, artist, sculptor and composer, a very broad and general idea of the rights he possesses in his original creations. Those rights ought to be protected and their owners will find that an appreciation and understanding of those rights and an insistence upon their recognition will earn them respect in this commercial world, while at the same time according to them some measure of reward for their labours. Those labours have produced and are producing great works for the benefit and enjoyment of mankind and as a famous jurist said nearly two centuries ago, "It is wise in any state to encourage letters and the painful researches of learned men. The easiest and most equal way of doing it, is, by securing to them the property of their own works. Nobody contributes, who is not willing; and though a good book may be run down and a bad one cried up, for a time; yet sooner or later, the reward will be in proportion to the merit of the work. A writer's fame will not be the less, that he has bread, without being under the necessity of prostituting his pen to flattery or party, to get it. He who engages in a laborious work, which may employ his whole life, will do it with more spirit, if, besides his own glory, he thinks it may be a provision for his family."

(7) (Applying to deaths occurring on and after Dec. 18, 1945). Where duty has become payable upon or in respect of the succession to any property passing upon the death of any person, and subsequently within five years duty has, on the death of the person to whom the property passed on the first death, again become payable upon or in respect of the same property or any part thereof or property which can be identified as having been acquired in exchange thereof, the value of the property included in both successions shall, for the purposes of computing the aggregate net value and dutiable value in respect of the second succession, be deemed to be an amount equal to

DECEASED DOMICILED OUTSIDE OF CANADA

(Sec. 9) Where the deceased was domiciled outside of Canada at time of death any allowance made on account of debts by way of deduction from the value of the property situated in Canada, other than debts specifically charged upon the said property, shall be in the proportion that the value of the property situated in Canada bears to the value of the property of the deceased wheresoever situated.

PERSONS LIABLE FOR DUTIES

(Sec. 13) (1) Every successor shall be liable for the duty by this Act levied upon or in respect of the succession to him provided that the duty in respect of any gift of disposition inter vivos to a successor shall also be payable by and may be recovered from the executor of the property of the deceased but such liability shall be in his capacity as executor only and for an amount not exceeding the value of the interest of the successor in the property administered by the executor.

(2) Subject to the provisions of subsection 1 of this section all the duties assessed and levied under this Act shall be payable by and may be recovered from the executor of the property of the deceased, provided that the liability of any executor under this subsection shall be a liability in his capacity as executor only and for an amount not exceeding the value of the property administered by him.

(Sec. 14) Every executor who is required to pay duty upon or in respect of the succession to property which is not administered by him or which does not come into his possession or control shall be entitled to recover from the successor liable therefor the duty payable upon or in respect of such succession.

(Sec. 15) Every executor who is required to pay duty upon or in respect of the succession to property which is being administered by him shall be entitled to deduct from the amount paid over by him the amount of the duty paid by him or, in the event of the successor being satisfied otherwise than in money paid over by him, to recover from the successor the amount of the duty so paid.

DUTIES ON SUCCESSIONS

(Sec. 6) Subject to the exemptions mentioned in section 7 (Exemptions) of this Act, there shall be assessed, levied and paid at the rates provided for in the First Schedule to this Act duties upon or in respect of the following successions, that is to say—

(a) where the deceased was at the time of his death domiciled in a province of Canada, upon or in respect of the succession to all real or immovable property situated in Canada, and all personal property wheresoever situated;

(b) where the deceased was at the time of his death domiciled outside of Canada, upon or in respect of the succession to all property situated in Canada.

RATES OF DUTY

INITIAL RATES

(Sec. 10) There shall be assessed, levied and paid to the Receiver General of Canada, upon or in respect of each succession mentioned and described in section 6 (Duties on Successions) of this Act an initial duty at the rate set forth under the heading "Initial rates dependent on aggregate net value" in the First Schedule to this Act which corresponds to the aggregate net value, in the said Schedule, and the duty so levied shall be payable by each successor in respect of his succession: Provided that there shall be no duty levied under this section where the aggregate net value exceeds $5,000. but does not exceed $25,000.

ADDITIONAL RATES

(Sec. 11) In addition to the duty imposed by section 10 of this Act, there shall be assessed, levied and paid upon or in respect of each succession mentioned and described in section 6 of this Act a duty at the rate set forth in the First Schedule to this Act which corresponds to the dutiable value in the said Schedule, as follows:—

(a) under the heading Class A of the said schedule where the dutiable value exceeds $5,000. and where the successor is the widow or child of the deceased;

(b) under the heading Class B of the said schedule where the dutiable value exceeds $1,000. and where the successor is the grandfather, grandmother, father, mother, husband, son-in-law or daughter-in-law of the deceased or any person who is included within any of the classes of persons described in subparagraphs (i), (ii), (iii) or (iv) of paragraph (b) of section two but is not a child coming within paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) under the heading Class C of the said Schedule where the dutiable value exceeds $1,000. and where the successor is a lineal ancestor (except a grandfather, grandmother, father or mother), a brother or sister of the deceased or any descendant of a brother or sister, or a brother or sister of the father or mother of the deceased or any descendant of such brother or sister;

(d) under the heading Class D of the said Schedule where the dutiable value exceeds $1,000. and where the successor is any person in any other degree of consanguinity to the deceased than as mentioned in paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of this section, or is a stranger in blood to the deceased.

1948 AMENDMENT

(Sec. 7) (6) Where, on the death of a predecessor on or after the first day of January, nineteen hundred forty-eight, the aggregate net value exceeds fifty and thousand dollars, if the total amount of the duties otherwise payable under this Act exceeds the amount of the difference between the aggregate net value and fifty thousand dollars.

(a) the total amount of the duties is, notwithstanding anything in this Act, an amount equal to the amount of the difference, and

(b) the amount of the duty payable by each successor is an amount equal to the proportion of the amount of the duty otherwise payable by him that the total amount of the duties payable in accordance with this subsection is of the total amount of the duties otherwise payable.

1952 AMENDMENT

(Sec. 12) (1) In this section

(a) "provincial Act" means any provincial Act that imposes Succession Duties and "provincial duties" means the duties imposed by such a provincial Act;

(b) "total duty" means the total amount of duty that, but for this section, would be payable under this Act on the death of a predecessor mentioned in subsection two in respect of all successions to property on which duties were paid under provincial Acts, and;

(c) "total provincial duties" means the total amount of duties paid under provincial Acts in respect of all property the succession to which is subject to duty under this Act upon the death of a predecessor mentioned in subsection two.

(2) Where provincial duties have been paid in respect of property the succession to which is subject to duty under this Act upon the death of a predecessor, the successor may deduct from the duty otherwise payable by him under this Act in respect of the succession to that property the amount of that duty multiplied by the lesser of (a) one half; or (b) the total provincial duties divided by the total duty.

(The purpose of this provision is to permit the allowance of provincial duties as against the Dominion duties up to but not exceeding one-half of the Dominion duties. It came into force on June 18th, 1952.

EXAMPLE

An example of the way the two classes of rates i.e., the "initial rates" and the "additional rates" apply in the case of an estate of $100,000. of dutiable value descending to two adult children. Each child's bequest is $50,000. The "Initial Rate" (dependent on aggregate net value) for $100,000 is 4.9%. The "Additional Rate" (dependent on dutiable value of the individual benefit) for a bequest of $50,000. in Class B (the Class for Adult Children) is 7.9%. The total of 4.9% and 7.9% is 12.8%. A total rate of 12.8% is thus the duty applicable to the dutiable value of each bequest of $50,000. (We have here doubled the original rates, in accordance with the 1946 amendment; but note section 12 respecting 50% deduction.)

FIRST SCHEDULE

RATES OF DUTY—DOMINION SUCCESSION DUTIES

(Partial Table Only)

The following is a partial table of rates omitting many of the intermediate steps. The complete schedule in the Act progresses by very small increases, both of values and rates. There are, for instance, 9 intermediate rates of duty between the 10% and the 12% rate shown below under Class A, and a similar close progression between other rates of duty here shown.

The rates in this schedule give effect to the 1946 amendment by which, in respect of any succession upon the death of a person after Dec. 31, 1946, the rates were doubled, with a provision for allowable deductions in respect of duties payable under the laws of any province or provinces. See above, Section 12.

The rates appearing below apply only to successions derived from persons dying on or after the first day of January, 1947.

WHEN DUTIES PAYABLE

(Sec. 25) Duties, unless otherwise provided are payable within 6 months after death of deceased.

INSURANCE AND JOINT BANK ACCOUNTS, ETC.

(Sec. 50) (2) Notwithstanding anything contained herein, property not exceeding $1,500 in value or amount included in a succession may be transferred or paid without the consent of the Minister in each of the undermentioned cases, provided notice of such transfer or payment is given forthwith to the Minister, and that the property comes within any of the following classes, namely:—

(a) Moneys due under any contract of life insurance;

(b) Moneys payable by any benevolent or friendly society to an estate of a deceased person or to any member or members of his family;

(c) Superannuation benefits payable to any member of the family of a deceased employee, including refunds of pension contributions.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained herein property not exceeding $500 in value or amount included in a succession, may be transferred or paid without the consent of the Minister, in each of the following cases, provided notice of such transfer or payment is given forthwith to the Minister, and that the property comes within any of the following classes, namely:—

(a) Moneys in any branch of a bank;

(b) Moneys deposited with a trust company, loan company, or similar institution;

(c) Salary, wages or gratuities payable to the representatives or relatives of deceased employees.

AVOIDANCE OF DOUBLE TAXATION

A Convention between Canada and the United States of America was signed at Ottawa on June 8th

1944, having as its purpose the avoidance of double taxation in federal succession duties. This was amended by a Supplementary Convention taking effect on November 21st, 1951. A similar Agreement was signed between Canada and the United Kingdom on June 5, 1946, a Convention between Canada and France on March 16, 1951, effective August 28, 1953, and an Agreement with Ireland on October 28, 1954, effective December 20, 1955. In 1948 an amendment to clarify the application of the duties on foreign estates was adopted, the wording being as follows:

(Sec. 7) (7) Where Canada has entered into a convention or agreement with another country for the avoidance of double taxation pursuant to which duties are assessable under this Act exclusively in respect of the property situated in Canada where the deceased dies domiciled in that other country, the aggregate net value for the purpose of subsections six and seven A means, in the case of a predecessor who dies domiciled in that other country, the aggregate net value of the property wherever situated.

There is also a treaty in effect between Canada and France for the avoidance of double taxation. It was signed at Paris on the 16th March 1951, and came into force on 28th May 1953.

*Although no estate under $50,000 in aggregate net value is dutiable it is possible for some foreign estates exceeding that figure in total value to have Canadian assets between $25,000 and $50,000 which do incur an initial rate based on that Canadian value and a rate for part of that area of value might be indicated such as "exceeding $25,000 and not exceeding $27,000, 1.0%" and perhaps also "exceeding $35,000 and not exceeding $36,500, 2.0%".

- (d) That portion of any property devised or bequeathed by the deceased for religious, charitable or educational purposes to any religious, charitable or educational organization which carries on its work both in and outside Ontario as is in the same ratio to the whole that its expenditures for carrying on its work in Ontario bear to its total expenditures during such period as the treasurer may determine.

These amendments favor, to a considerable extent, religious and educational organizations throughout Canada so far as exemption from Ontario Duty is concerned.

Thus, if a brother of the adopting parent died intestate, the adopted child would share equally with other nephews and nieces, and for rates would be classed as a "collateral" above.

MAKING RETURNS

Section 12 provides that every person to whom or for whose benefit any property situate in Ontario passes on the death of the deceased or to whom there is a transmission or to whom a disposition is made shall make returns to the Succession Duty Department. Such returns shall be made within three months after the death of deceased or within such further period as Treasurer may allow.

Section 12 also provides that the applicant for probate, administration or other grant shall, at the time of making application, make and file with the Succession Duty Department an affidavit containing, —

(a) an inventory of all the property passing on the death of the deceased and particulars of all dispositions and such inventory shall show the value of such property and dispositions; and

(b) the name of every person who benefits by any property passing on the death of the deceased or to whom a disposition is made, the place of residence of such person and the degree of relationship in which such person stands to the deceased.

NOTE—The terms "disposition" or "dispositions" where used under the above caption—"Making Returns" mean lifetime disposition or lifetime dispositions made by the deceased and do not include any disposition which he may have made by will.

WHEN AND HOW DUTY PAYABLE

Where an annuity, term of years, life estate, income or interest in expectancy is not involved, the duty levied shall be payable at the end of six months from the death of the deceased and for default there shall be added to such duty, interest at the rate of 5% per annum from date of death till payment.

In the case of an annuity, term of years, life estate or income which is not an interest in expectancy, the duty with respect to such shall be payable in a number of equal annual instalments equal to:—

- (a) the number of years
- (i) of expectancy of life of the person who benefits, or
- (ii) for which such annuity, term of years or income is to run, as the case may be; or

(b) ten, whichever is the lesser and such instalments shall commence one year after the death of the deceased and for default in payment of any of such instalments, there shall be added thereto interest at the rate of 5% per annum from the date on which such instalment became payable, until payment.

Duty with respect to any interest in expectancy may be paid as provided in paragraph 1.

The duty on any interest in expectancy, where an annuity, term of years, life estate or income is not involved, if not sooner paid, shall be due when such interest comes into possession and payable at the end of three months thereafter and in case of default there shall be added to such duty, interest at rate of 5 per cent per annum from the date of coming into possession until payment.

In the case of an annuity, term of years, life estate or income which is an interest in expectancy, the duty with respect to such, shall, if not sooner paid, be payable in a number of equal annual instalments as set out in Paragraph 2 above and such instalments shall commence one year after the date when such annuity, term of years, life estate or income commences to be enjoyed and for default in payment of any of such instalments, there shall be added thereto interest at the rate of 5% per annum from the date on which such instalment became payable, until payment.

ALLOWANCE FOR DUTY PAID IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS

For the purpose of avoiding double taxation on residents in Ontario an allowance shall be made for duty levied and paid on personal property situate in the jurisdictions mentioned below where the deceased owner died domiciled in Ontario, where such property passes to Ontario residents and where duty is levied on such residents, by Ontario, with respect to the transmission of such property. The allowance made by Ontario in such circumstances will be the amount of duty levied on such property by the foreign jurisdiction; provided however that if the duty levied on such property by the foreign jurisdiction exceeds the duty levied by Ontario with respect to the transmission of such property, the allowance will be the amount of the Ontario Duty.

The jurisdictions concerned are as follows:

- (a) The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland;
- (b) The Union of South Africa;
- (c) The Commonwealth of Australia;
- (d) Eire;
- (e) The Dominion of New Zealand;
- (f) The other Provinces of the Dominion of Canada, save and except Newfoundland;
- (g) The District of Columbia; and
- (h) Each of the States of the United States of America.

The allowance to be made by Ontario, as aforesaid, shall apply where the deceased died on or after June 21st, 1946 and with the object of relieving

Ontario citizens as far as possible, in this respect, the allowance shall be applicable whether or not the foreign jurisdictions, or any of them, make similar provisions in converse cases.

RE 1951-1955 AMENDMENTS

There were a few amendments made to The Succession Duty Act in 1951. Among these was a very important re-enactment which provided that no duty would attach to the disposition mentioned below and that such disposition would not be included in the aggregate value nor included for the purpose of determining any rate of duty. The disposition in question is as follows:—

Any disposition where actual and bona fide enjoyment and possession of the property in respect of which the disposition is made, was assumed more than five years before the date of death of the deceased by the person to whom the disposition is made, or by a trustee for such person, and thenceforward retained to the entire exclusion of the deceased or of any benefit to him whether voluntary or by contract or otherwise.

In addition to the 1951 Amendment referred to above, there was another amendment made to the Act in 1952 which provides that any person may make payment not exceeding $1500.00 under any pension fund, plan or scheme of general application to employees of whom the deceased was one, without the consent of the Treasurer, where payment is made to or for the benefit of any member or members of the family of the deceased, and notice of the making of payment shall be transmitted forthwith to the Treasurer.

The 1953 amendment referred to above in relation to preferred rates was designed to take care of a situation where the aggregate value was say, $51,000., all going, e.g., to the widow. The duty at the applicable rates would be more than $1000. The amendment in such cases, automatically reduces the duty to $1000., thus leaving a clear $50,000.

The 1954 amendments were of a technical nature for the purpose of correcting doubts as to meaning.

In 1955, however, there was an amendment permitting banks, credit unions, trust companies and others to pay $500.00 out of money on deposit without consent, but upon notice to the Treasurer, where the deceased died domiciled in Ontario.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

Under agreement with the Dominion Government Prince Edward Island vacated the succession duty field for a period of five years from April 1, 1947, although duties are payable on properties passing prior to that date. This agreement was renewed for an additional five years from April 1, 1952.

QUEBEC

DESCENT AND DISTRIBUTION OF PROPERTY

PROVINCE OF ONTARIO

A CONDENSED SUMMARY OF THE LAW OF INTESTATE ESTATES

All real and personal property which is vested in any person without a right in any other person to take by survivorship shall, on his death, whether testate or intestate, and notwithstanding any testamentary disposition, devolve to and become vested in his personal representative from time to time as trustee for the persons by law beneficially entitled thereto and subject to the payment of his debts, and so far as such property is not disposed of by deed, will, contract or other effectual disposition, the same shall be administered, dealt with and distributed as if it were personal property not so disposed of.

"A husband who, if The Devolution of Estates Act had not been passed, would be entitled to an interest as tenant by the curtesy in the real property of his wife, may, by deed or instrument in writing executed, and attested by at least one witness and delivered to the personal representative, if any, or if there is none, deposited in the office of the Registrar of the Supreme Court at Osgoode Hall, within six months after his wife's death, elect to take such interest in the real and personal property of his wife as he would have taken if the said Act had not been passed, in which case the husband's interest therein shall be ascertained in all respects as if the said Act had not been passed, and he shall be entitled to no further interest thereunder.

The real and personal property of every man dying intestate and leaving a widow whether or not he leaves issue shall, where the net value of such real and personal property does not exceed $5,000.00, belong to his widow absolutely and exclusively. The term "net value" means the value of the real and personal property after payment of the charges thereon and the debts, funeral expenses and expenses of administration, including succession duty.

Where the estate of the husband consists in whole or in part of real property, then notwithstanding anything set out above or anything hereinafter set out with respect to the benefits to the widow, such benefits shall not accrue to her and she shall only be entitled to her dower unless she elects to take her distributive share, as set out herein, in lieu of dower. The term "dower" means the right of the widow, for her life to one-third of the rents and profits from the real estate owned by her husband at his death.

By the provisions of The Devolution of Estates Amendment Act, 1952, the 1918 Enactment, as it stood in our present Devolution of Estates Act, (Chapter 103-R.S.O.-1950) was repealed and it was further provided that any real property which but for the provisions of the 1918 Enactment, would have vested in the persons beneficially entitled thereto, shall be deemed to have vested in such persons notwithstanding such provisions.

The Devolution of Estates Amendment Act, 1953, was passed so that an illegitimate child or the mother of an illegitimate child, under certain circumstances, shares in the estate.

Subject to what is set out above, the estate of a person dying intestate is distributed as set out below, according to the Devolution of Estates Act, being Chapter 103 of The Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1950. It will be noted that where the widow takes a share, the net value of the estate is presumed to be in excess of $5,000.00. Where there is no widow to take a share, the net value of the estate is immaterial.

DISTRIBUTION

If the Intestate die leaving,—

1. A widow only, the widow gets $5,000.00 plus interest thereon at 4% from date of death until payment and two-thirds of the residue. Remaining one-third of the residue equally to the next of kin of the deceased husband and those who legally represent them. For example, if the next of kin were a father, mother, brother and sister, or any of these and if there were children of a deceased brother or sister, the said one-third would be divided equally among all of these, save that the children aforesaid would take per stirpes and not per capita,—that is they would take equally the share which their father or mother would have taken had he or she survived the intestate. If there are no kindred to inherit, the said remaining one-third of residue would go to the Crown.

2. Widow and one child or legal representatives of child, $5,000.00 and interest as above and half residue to widow. The other half to child or equally among legal representatives.

3. Widow and children and legal representatives of deceased children—$5,000.00 and interest as above and one-third of residue to widow. The other two-thirds equally among the children and the legal representatives of deceased children, the latter taking per stirpes.

4. Widow and father or mother or brother or sister, $5,000.00 and interest as above and two-thirds of the residue to widow. The remaining one-third of residue to the father or mother or brother or sister.

If the intestate die leaving,—

1. A husband only,—half to the husband and remaining half among next of kin of deceased wife and those who legally represent them and in same proportions as mentioned in No. 1 above. If there are no kindred to inherit, the said remaining one-half would go to the Crown.

2. A husband and child or legal representatives of child,—one-third to husband. The remaining two-thirds to child or equally among legal representatives.

3. A husband and children and legal representatives of deceased children,—one-third to husband. The remaining two-thirds equally among the children and the legal representatives of deceased children,—the latter taking per stirpes.

4. Husband and father or mother or brother or sister,—one-half to the husband. The remaining half to the father or mother or brother or sister.

If the intestate die without leaving a spouse, but leaving,—

(a) a child or legal representatives of child,—all to child or equally among the legal representatives.

(b) Children and legal representatives of deceased children,—equally among all,—the legal representatives taking per stirpes.

(c) Children by two spouses,—equally among all.

(d) Child and grandchild of a deceased child,—half to child and half to grandchild who takes by representation.

If the intestate die without spouse or issue but leaving,—

(a) A father, mother, brother and sister or any of these and children of a deceased brother or sister,—equally among all,—the said children sharing per stirpes.

(b) A father or mother, or brother or sister,—all to the one who survives.

(c) A grandparent or grandparents,—all to him or her or equally among these.

(d) Brother or sister of the whole blood and brother or sister of the half blood, equally among the two.

(e) Posthumous brother or sister and mother, equally among the two.

(f) Brother and grandfather,—all to brother.

(g) Grandniece or grandnephew and niece or nephew,—all to niece or nephew.

(h) Brother and aunts or uncles,—all to brother.

(i) Uncles or aunts children and brother or sisters grandchildren,—equally among all.

(j) Grandparent and uncle or aunt,—all to grandparent.

(k) Uncle and deceased uncle's or aunt's child,—all to uncle.

(l) Nephew or niece by brother or half-brother and nephew or niece by sister or half-sister,—equally among the two.

(m) Children of deceased brothers or sisters or children of deceased brothers and sisters,—equally per capita.

Note—Section 77 (6) of The Child Welfare Act, 1954, puts an adopted child in the same position as a natural child for purpose of inheritance from the adopting parent or kindred of the adopting parent.

Where the intestate dies without lawful heirs, all of his estate will go to the Crown."

THE QUEEN'S CIVIL LIST

Until George III. came to the throne in 1760, the income of the sovereign was derived chiefly from Crown lands and certain landed property. In the feudal ages these lands constituted a princely patrimony. In later times this Crown property was greatly reduced by lavish grants to royal favorites, so much so that at the accession of Queen Anne, Parliament endeavored to save the remnant by an Act (1 Anne, c. 8) which prohibited alienation of Crown lands, and enacted stringent provisions in regard to the length of the term for which they might be leased and the rents reserved.

Queen Anne, George I. and George II. derived the larger part of their income from their life-interest in the Crown property, but when George III. came to the throne he surrendered his life-interest in the Crown lands. It was turned over to the nation in return for a fixed Civil List of £800,000, subsequently increased to £900,000. George IV., William IV., Queen Victoria and Edward VII., on their accessions, surrendered their life interest in the Crown lands in return for a Civil List. The same course has been taken by each subsequent monarch on coming to the throne.

Certain hereditary revenues have also been surrendered to the Exchequer.

In 1910 the King's Civil List was fixed at the yearly sum of £470,000.

By the Civil List Act of 1937, the civil list for King George VI was fixed at £410,000 subject to certain abatements while the revenues of the Duchy of Cornwall were vested in His Majesty.

The Civil List Act, 1952, fixed the Civil list for Queen Elizabeth II at £475,000, allocated as follows:

H. M. Privy Purse.....	£ 60,000
Salaries of H. M. Household.....	185,000
Expenses of H. M. Household.....	121,800
Royal Bounty, alms and special services.....	13,200
Supplementary Provision.....	95,000
	£475,000

This sum is subject to a reduction equal to a proportion of the net revenues of the Duchy of Cornwall, so long as the Duke of Cornwall is a minor.

In addition to the Civil List as above, provision is made for other members of the Royal Family on a per annum basis as follows:—

Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, £70,000.

The Duke of Edinburgh, £40,000.

The Princess Margaret, £6,000, to be increased to £15,000 per annum in the event of marriage.

The Duke of Gloucester, £35,000.

The Princess Royal, £6,000.

The revenue of the estates of the Duchy of Lancaster (which have been attached to the Crown since 1399), is paid over to the Keeper of Her Majesty's Privy Purse.

Until comparatively recent times the office of Prime Minister was not recognized officially. In 1905 the Prime Minister was given precedence, by Royal Warrant, next after the Archbishop of York and over every member of the Government except the Lord Chancellor. There was no salary attached to the office of Prime Minister until the passing of the Ministers of the Crown Act in 1937, and the holder usually combined with it some other appointment, such as First Lord of the Treasury, which carried a salary.

THE TREASURY

Great George Street, S.W. 1.

The Treasury is the Department which deals with all matters of public finance, home and overseas; gives sanction for expenditure by the spending departments, civil and military, and is responsible for personnel questions throughout the Civil Service. The Treasury presents the estimate of all the Civil Departments to Parliament, but, after presentation, the responsibility for defending them in Parliament rests with the Parliamentary Heads of the Departments. The control of the Treasury is nominally in the hands of the Lords Commissioners consisting of the First Lord of the Treasury (who is also the Prime Minister), the Chancellor of the Exchequer and five

Junior Lords. The Prime Minister and first Lord is not primarily concerned in the day-to-day aspects of Treasury business nor are the Junior Lords and the Parliamentary Secretary who are Government Whips in the House of Commons. The higher departmental direction of Treasury business devolves on the Chancellor of the Exchequer, who is assisted at Ministerial level by the Financial Secretary and the Economic Secretary.

THE COMMONWEALTH RELATIONS OFFICE Downing Street, London S.W.1

In 1925, responsibility for United Kingdom's relations with the Dominions (as they were then known) was transferred from the Secretary of State for the Colonies to a newly created Office of Secretary of State for Dominions Affairs. The two posts were held by the same individual Minister until 1930. The title was changed in 1947 to Secretary of State for Commonwealth Relations. In August 1947, responsibility for the conduct of relations with India and Pakistan was transferred to the Secretary of State for Commonwealth Relations from the Secretary of State for India, the latter post being abolished.

The Commonwealth Relations Office is now the Department which, under the Secretary of State, conducts the United Kingdom Government's relations with the Governments of the other Members of the Commonwealth (Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Pakistan and Ceylon), the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland, the self-governing Colony of Southern Rhodesia, and the Irish Republic (which, though no longer a Member of the Commonwealth, is not treated as a foreign country). It maintains High Commissioners' Offices in the other Commonwealth countries and an Embassy in Dublin. The staff for both the C.R.O. and its overseas posts is drawn from the Commonwealth Relations Service.

In addition the Secretary of State for Commonwealth Relations is responsible for the administration of the High Commission Territories in South Africa (Basutoland, the Bechuanaland Protectorate and Swaziland).

COLONIAL OFFICE

Church House, Great Smith Street, S.W.1

The Colonial Office dates back to 1660, when a Committee of the Privy Council was appointed for "The Plantations", implying at this time the settlements in the West Indies and North America. The War Department assumed responsibility for the Colonies from 1801 until the post of Secretary of State was revived in 1854. In 1907, a new department of the Colonial Office was set up to administer the affairs of the Dominions and the self-governing Colonies.

INCOME TAX RATES AND DEATH DUTIES IN GREAT BRITAIN, 1956-1957

The standard rate of Income Tax in the United Kingdom (Great Britain and Northern Ireland) for the year 1955-56 imposed by the Finance Act, 1955 is 8s. 6 d. in the pound.

Earned Income Allowance etc.—Two-ninths of the earned income up to a maximum allowance of £450; where total income does not exceed £300 a deduction of two-ninths of total income is allowed; persons aged 65 and upwards whose total income does not exceed £600 are allowed a deduction of two-ninths of total income; certain marginal provisions apply to incomes immediately above the limits of £300 and £600.

Personal Allowance.—Married man £240, other persons £140.

Additional allowance for wife's earned income, 7/9ths of that income up to a maximum of £140.

Child Allowance.—£100 for each child under 16 years of age, or over 16 if receiving full-time education, or, in certain circumstances, full-time vocational training.

Housekeeper Allowance.—£60 for a widower's or widow's housekeeper; an unmarried person's widowed mother or other female relative taking care of children; or, in certain circumstances, a female person employed or maintained to take charge of children.

Dependent Relative Allowance. Where incapacitated by old age or infirmity, not exceeding £60. In certain other circumstances not exceeding £40.

The income remaining after deduction of these reliefs is known as the taxable income; the first £60 of taxable income is charged at 2/3 in the £, the next £150 at 4/9 in the £, the next £150 at 6/9 in the £ and the remainder at the standard rate. Where the taxable income includes earned income of the wife, the amounts of taxable income chargeable at the reduced rates of 2/3, 4/9 and 6/9 in the £ may in certain circumstances be increased to £120, £300 and £300 respectively. Certain relief from tax is given in respect of life insurance premiums paid, in accordance with statutory provisions.

A portion of the tax payable by individuals for years 1941-42 to 1945-46 has been earmarked as a Post War Credit to be made available to the Taxpayer at a date to be determined. The Post War Credit for all five years is now being made available to men taxpayers aged 65 and over and to women taxpayers aged 60 and over. In certain circumstances it is also being made available to the beneficiary of a deceased person and to a trustee in bankruptcy of a bankrupt holder.

RATES OF INCOME TAX

The standard rates have been as follows from 1914:

Year	Rate	Year	Rate
1914	1s. 8d.	1936	4s. 9d.
1915	3s. 0d.	1937	5s. 0d.
1916-17	5s. 0d.	1938	5s. 6d.
1918-21	6s. 0d.	1939	7s. 0d.
1922	5s. 0d.	1940	8s. 6d.
1923-24	4s. 6d.	1941-5	10s. 0d.
1925-29	4s. 0d.	1946-50	9s. 0d.
1930	4s. 6d.	1951-52	9s. 6d.
1931-33	5s. 0d.	1953-54	9s. 0d.
1934-35	4s. 6d.	1955-56	8s. 6d.

SUR-TAX

On incomes in excess of £2,000 a further charge or tax is imposed, called the Sur-tax, which is payable as a deferred instalment of Income Tax on the 1st January following the year of assessment. Thus the Sur-tax in respect of the year 1954-55 is payable on the 1st January, 1956. The additional rates charged on these incomes begin at 2s. 0d. in the £ on the first £500 of the excess over £2,000, and rise by steps to the rate of 10s. 0d. in the £ payable on the excess over £15,000.

PROFITS TAX

The tax introduced in 1937 as the National Defence Contribution has, as from 1 January, 1947, been renamed the Profits Tax. The Profits Tax is imposed on the profits of all trades or businesses (excluding professions); as from 1st January, 1947 it applies only to corporate bodies and unincorporated societies and as from that date investment income is included in computing profits. The rate of tax is 30% on distributed profits and 3% on undistributed profits. If the profits are less than £2,000, no tax is payable. If the profits exceed £2,000 but are less than £12,000, an abatement is allowed.

DOUBLE TAXATION RELIEF

Relief from United Kingdom income tax (including sur-tax) and profits tax is allowed in respect of taxes of a similar nature in Commonwealth or foreign countries.

As between the United Kingdom and Canada there is a special arrangement, signed on 5th June 1946, under which certain classes of income derived from one country by a resident of the other country are exempt from tax in the former country. Where both countries continue to tax, full relief for the double taxation is given by the country of residence of the taxpayer. The United Kingdom has similar arrangements with the United States and a number of other countries.

Where no such arrangement is in operation, a person resident in the United Kingdom is entitled to full relief in respect of tax paid in the country in which income arises. This new relief, which applies as from the year 1953/54 supersedes a previously existing scheme for relief in respect of taxes paid in Commonwealth or foreign countries.

BIRTH, MARRIAGE AND DEATH CERTIFICATES—GREAT BRITAIN

A certificate of any birth, death or marriage registered in England and Wales since 1837 can be obtained from the Registrar General, General Register Office, Somerset House, London, W.C.2. Applicants should state the date and place of the event as fully as possible and give names in full. Where full particulars are given, the fees are 7s. 6d. for a full birth, death or marriage certificate, or 9d. for a short birth certificate, which omits the parents' names.

A Canadian Postal Money Order made payable to the Registrar General, London, and crossed "& Co." should be enclosed, and 1s. 3d. should be added to the fee if the certificate is required to be sent by Air Mail.

BRITISH CUSTOMS DUTIES ON IMPORTS

Under the British Import Duties Act, 1932, a duty of customs, known as the "general ad valorem duty", equal to 10 per cent of the value of the goods, is chargeable on all goods imported into the United Kingdom, with certain exceptions. On specified classes of goods "additional duties" are chargeable as well as the general ad valorem duty. These additional duties are imposed by Treasury Orders made in accordance with the provisions of the Import Duties Act, 1932. Certain goods are exempt.

The Ottawa Agreements Act, 1932, provided for the charge of duty on certain goods, mainly foodstuffs, of non-Commonwealth origin.

Under the Safeguarding of Industries Act, 1921, Key Industry duty is chargeable on goods such as optical glass and optical instruments, scientific instruments and synthetic organic chemicals of non-Commonwealth origin.

Duty is also chargeable under other enactments, the main classes of goods liable being, Beef and Veal, Beer, Hydrocarbon Oils, Silk, Spirits, Sugar, Tobacco and Wine.

Goods (except Hydrocarbon Oils) of approved Canadian origin coming within the scope of the above Acts are admitted either free of duty or at a preferential rate.

Schedules of all dutiable goods and rates of duty are included in the "Customs and Excise Tariff of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland," published periodically by H. M. Stationery Office, York House, Kingsway, London, W.C. 2, with amendments.

IMPERIAL PREFERENCE

The general conditions governing admission of imported goods to Imperial Preference are that the goods must be shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of Customs and Excise to have been consigned from and grown, produced or manufactured in the British Commonwealth.

Full information as to the qualifications for and method of claiming preference may be obtained from the Secretary, H. M. Customs and Excise, King's Beam House, Mark Lane, London, E.C. 3, from any Collector of Customs and Excise or from M. H. Trade

Commissioners and Trade Correspondents in the Overseas Dominions; also from Department of Trade and Commerce Foreign Tariffs Division, Ottawa.

IMPORT LICENCES

Under the Import of Goods (Control) Orders 1940, as amended, no goods (other than goods consigned from the Channel Islands) may be imported into the United Kingdom except under the authority of a licence granted by the Board of Trade. Separate licences are not, however, required for limited lists of goods consigned from all countries or specified countries respectively for which Open General Licences have been issued.

Details of the goods covered by these Open General licences are published from time to time in the Board of Trade Journal and in "Notices to Importers" issued by the Import Licensing Branch of the Board of Trade.

PURCHASE TAX

The United Kingdom Purchase Tax is a single-stage sales tax charged at ad valorem rates on specified classes of goods. In general, liability to tax arises when the goods pass from the wholesaler to the retailer. Manufacturers and wholesale merchants dealing in chargeable goods must be registered. This enables them to deal with one another freely in the goods, or to export them without liability to tax. Tax becomes chargeable when the goods are sold by the registered manufacturer or wholesaler to an unregistered person, generally the retailer, or where there is no retail stage, to the public.

Purchase Tax is levied on chargeable goods imported into the United Kingdom, with the exception of goods imported for a registered wholesale merchant or a registered manufacturer as stock for his business or as materials. Such imported goods would become chargeable with tax (in the same way as goods of United Kingdom origin) if subsequently sold by the registered trader to an unregistered person.

The tax was first imposed by the Finance (No. 2) Act, 1940, and came into operation on 21st October, 1940, at two rates—16½% and 33½% of the wholesale value of the goods.

The groups of goods chargeable with Purchase Tax and the Statutory exemptions from the tax are defined in the Eighth Schedule to the Finance Act 1948, as amended, and consolidated in the Purchase Tax (Consolidation) Order 1956. At present (August 1956) there are six rates ranging from 5% to 90% of the wholesale value.

Latest information about chargeable goods is contained in Notice No. 78, and about the tax generally in Notice No. 77, obtainable from the Commissioners of Customs and Excise, King's Beam House, Mark Lane, London E.C.3.

THE BRITISH ARMY

HISTORICAL

Parliament's consent to the maintenance of an army was established in the seventeenth century as a result of a struggle between the Commons and the Stuarts. The standing army became a national institution under Charles II, and the Mutiny Act, passed at the accession of William II, in 1689, formed the basis of army discipline. The Mutiny Act, after enlargement and change from time to time, is now replaced by the Army Act, constitutional control being assured by the Army and Air Force (Annual) Act, which until the passing of the Army Act, 1955, and the Revision of the Army and Air Force Acts (Transitional Provisions) Act, 1955, was passed by Parliament to maintain the Army Act in force for one year. The Army Act, 1955, came into force on 1st January 1957 and may be annually renewed by Order in Council for five consecutive years before a further Act of Parliament is required.

ORGANIZATION

The British Army is made up of (a) the Regular Army and its reserves, including the Army Emergency Reserve, and (b) the Territorial Army and the Territorial Army Reserves.

The Secretary of State for War is the President of the Army Council. Other members of the Army Council are responsible for different aspects of army organization and administration, such as the organization and disposition of troops, all personnel matters, armament and maintenance, and expenditure.

The British Army at home and overseas is divided into commands, of which the more important are commanded by generals or lieutenant-generals, who control a number of districts or areas each under a major-general, and fighting formations in their localities.

In time of war an army in the field is commanded by a general or lieutenant-general. It is made up of two or more corps, and army troops consisting of supporting arms and services. An army group, of two or more armies, is commanded by a general.

A corps is commanded by a lieutenant-general, and consists of a varying number of fighting divisions, together with supporting services.

There are three types of divisions, armoured, infantry and airborne, all commanded by major-generals.

Besides the major fighting arms—Royal Armoured Corps, Royal Artillery, Royal Engineers and Infantry—there are a number of technical and specialist corps.

THE REGULAR ARMY

The Regular Army comprises officers and other ranks commissioned or enlisted for full-time service. Normal regular engagements are for (a) three years with the Colours and (for men) four years in the Royal Army Reserve and (b) twenty two years with the Colours. A soldier enlisting on a twenty-two year engagement has the right, on giving appropriate notice, to terminate his colour service at the end of every three successive years. Termination at the end of three or six years carries a liability (for men) for four and three years service, respectively, in the paid Reserve. National Service men are compulsorily enlisted into the Regular Army for a period of two years' service between the ages of 18 and 26. At the termination of their whole-time service they have then to do part-time service for three and a half years in the Territorial Army or the Army Emergency Reserve.

RESERVE FORCES

The Regular Army Reserve of Officers is composed of retired Regular Army Officers and volunteer members who are liable for reserve service up to ages which vary according to their rank and corps; and also of National Service and certain other officers who have completed their active list service but who have a liability for service under the Navy, Army and Air Force Reserves Act, 1954 up to 3.10 June 1959 or the age of 45 years whichever is earlier.

The Royal Army Reserve is a reserve of warrant officers, non-commissioned officers and men and comprises the Regular Reserve, the Army Emergency Reserve and the Army General Reserve. The Regular Reserve consists of men who engage or are transferred for a period in this Reserve, having completed a period of service with the Colours. Members of this Reserve are liable to be called out by Royal Proclamation for service in any part of the world in the case of imminent danger or great emergency. They are also liable to be called out to aid the civil power in preservation of the public peace.

The Army General Reserve is comprised of national service men who have completed their whole time and part time service, and certain men who served on war-time engagements between 1939 and 1948. Members of this Reserve are unpaid and have no liability for training; they may be called out by issue of a Proclamation, in the event of imminent national danger or great emergency, for service in any part of the world; and they may be called out without a Proclamation in defence of the United Kingdom against actual or apprehended attack. Service terminates at 45 years of age.

The role of the Army Emergency Reserve is to provide certain communications, technical and administrative services required in an emergency. It consists of volunteers and national service men who are carrying out three and a half years' part time service, who are placed in three categories according to their trade qualifications or their service liability. Certain members are not required to train in peace time.

The Mobile Defence Corps forms part of the A.E.R. This Corps is organized on a geographical basis into a number of battalions in support of the Civil Defence organization in the United Kingdom. The battalions are specially trained in rescue duties in the event of a thermo-nuclear attack.

THE TERRITORIAL ARMY

The Territorial Army was reconstituted in 1947 on a country basis, as before the war. It is composed of a number of infantry divisions, armoured brigades, a parachute brigade, Army Groups R.A.—both field and anti-aircraft, anti-aircraft brigades, and certain corps and army troops. The divisions are so organized and equipped that they may be used either to meet commitments in N.A.T.O. or in defence of the United Kingdom.

The framework of the Territorial Army is provided by the cadre of volunteers, who are mostly officers and n.c.o.s. with war experience. The numbers are made up by national service men who carry out 3½ years part-time training with the Territorial Army after completing two years whole-time service with the Regular Army. Each Territorial Unit is based on and draws its recruits from a particular area of the country.

The Territorial Army can only be called out on permanent service in the event of actual or apprehended attack, but in the event of war may be sent anywhere at home or abroad.

THE HOME GUARD

This is a part-time volunteer force organized in sectors and battalions covering the whole of the United Kingdom. Since 1st March 1956 it has been on a Reserve basis with a small Active Cadre. It is essentially a force for local defence and its tasks include aid to the Civil Defence Corps.

WOMEN'S SERVICES

Queen Alexandra's Royal Army Nursing Corps is a corps of officers and soldiers who, under the direction of its Matron-in-Chief, nurse Army personnel and their families in all parts of the world. Its officers also train other ranks of the corps and of the Royal Army Medical Corps in nursing duties.

The Women's Royal Army Corps has superseded the war-time "Auxiliary Territorial Service". Employment in both home and overseas commands includes many trades suitable to women, enabling them to replace and release men for combatant duties in the Army.

THE CADET FORCES

The Cadet Forces consist of the Basic and Army Sections of the Combined Cadet Force (C.C.F.), which also has Royal Navy and Royal Air Force Sections, and the Army Cadet Force (A.C.F.). Both are entirely voluntary and cater for boys between 14 and 18 years, the C.C.F. in school contingents and the A.C.F. in units raised both by schools and by geographical areas.

THE ROYAL AIR FORCE

The Royal Air Force is administered by the Air Council which consists of:

The Secretary of State for Air (President of the Air Council).

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State (Vice-President).

The Chief of the Air Staff.

The Air Member for Personnel.

The Air Member for Supply and Organisation.

The Vice-Chief of the Air Staff.

Deputy Chief of the Air Staff.

The Controller of Aircraft in the Ministry of Supply.

The Permanent Under-Secretary of State (Secretary).

Additional members.

THE AIR MINISTRY

The Air Ministry is organised in five departments, as below:

The Department of the Chief of the Air Staff (C.A.S.).

The Department of the Air Member for Personnel (A.M.P.).

The Air Member for Personnel is responsible for the personnel policy and administration, other than training, of the Royal Air Force, its reserves and auxiliaries, and the Women's Royal Air Force and the Air Training Corps. He is also responsible for the welfare of R.A.F. and W.R.A.F. personnel including the religious, educational and medical services.

The Department of the Air Member for Supply and Organisation (A.M.S.O.).

He is also Secretary of the Air Council and in that capacity is responsible for the efficient working of the Air Ministry as a Department of State, for Parliamentary and legal business and for public relations.

The Meteorological Office is organised as part of the Air Ministry. It is responsible for meteorological research and for supplying meteorological information to all users, including units of the Royal Air Force.

UNITED KINGDOM COMMANDS

The Commands of the R.A.F. in the United Kingdom are as follows:

Bomber Command, its function is defined by its title; it also controls photographic reconnaissance units.

Fighter Command, Responsible for the control of offensive and defensive fighter operations; also for operational control of Royal Aux. Air Force Squadrons and the Royal Observer Corps.

Coastal Command, Responsible for reconnaissance over the sea; in conjunction with the Royal Navy, for protection of shipping at sea and for attack against enemy shipping and submarines; also for meteorological reconnaissance, and air/sea rescue.

Transport Command, Responsible for the study, development and training of all air transport operations, including airborne assaults; the organisation and control of air transport operations in support of the R.A.F. and other services; and for operations along the trunk routes, including flight delivery of aircraft between theatres.

Flying Training Command, Responsible for the training of flying personnel. Also controls the Royal Air Force College, Cranwell, the R.A.F. Flying College, Manby (a specialist Flying Training Unit for officers of all the Commonwealth Air Forces, which combines certain aspects of the work of the discontinued Empire Flying School, the Empire Air Navigation School and the Empire Air Armament School) and various schools for the training of instructors in flying, navigation and the use of weapons.

Technical Training Command, Responsible for the training of ground personnel. Also controls the R.A.F. Technical College, in which the specialist training of technical officers is carried out.

Maintenance Command, Responsible for the storage and issue of the whole range of equipment used by the R.A.F.

Home Command, Responsible for the Reserves (including the R.A.F.V.R.), the Royal Auxiliary Air Force, University Air Squadrons and the Air Training Corps.

OVERSEAS COMMANDS

Overseas Commands are forces of various types of Squadrons and Service Units assigned to specific areas. The main overseas Commands of the R.A.F. are the Middle East Air Force, the Far East Air Force, and the 2nd Tactical Air Force. (This latter Force until September 1, 1951, was called the British Air Forces of Occupation, Germany, but following the decision that the operational resources of B.A.F.O. should be placed at the disposal of the Supreme Commander, Allied Powers in Europe, the role of the Command became primarily that of a tactical air force. It was therefore considered appropriate to restore the historical name of 2nd Tactical Air Force).

Women's Royal Air Force, Following the decision that the Women's Forces were to be continued on a voluntary basis as a permanent feature of the Forces of the Crown, provision was made under the Army and Air Force (Women's Service) Act, 1948, which was brought into operation on 1st February, 1949, for women to be commissioned and enlisted in the Royal Air Force and its reserves and auxiliaries. Women officers and airwomen accepted, under the new conditions, for the Royal Air Force are fully integrated into that force and are not organised as a separate corps.

His late Majesty, King George VI, approved the title of Women's Royal Air Force for use where it is necessary to provide collectively for women in the Royal Air Force.

The Air Force Act applies to such women in the same way as it applies to men, subject to adaptations and modifications made by Order in Council.

The Royal Auxiliary Air Force and the R.A.F. Volunteer Reserve are voluntary organisations in which men and women render part-time service while continuing to follow their civilian occupations; the R.Aux.A.F. being composed of flying and other units which form part of the first-line defences.

The Royal Observer Corps is a uniformed civilian body which is a vital part of Fighter Command's radar reporting and fighter control system. The duties of the members, who serve on a spare-time basis in peace, include the identification and plotting of aircraft flying over Great Britain and monitoring radio activity in nuclear war.

The Air Training Corps gives boys of 14 and over experience in gliding and air matters, with special advantages if they join the Royal Air Force.

OVERSEAS TRAINING

During 1950 arrangements were made between the Governments of Canada and the United Kingdom for the Royal Canadian Air Force to train R.A.F. pilots and navigators in Canada. This scheme came into effect in January 1951. These arrangements are an extension of plans under which the R.C.A.F. are already training a number of air crews of the North Atlantic Treaty nations.

BRITAIN'S AUXILIARY AND NATIONAL SERVICES

A list of Civil Defence organizations, which were active during World War II, with descriptions, names and addresses of directors, etc., was included in the Canadian Almanac for 1945 and previous years.

For other former auxiliary services, see the articles "Royal Navy," "British Army" and "Royal Air Force".

CIVIL DEFENCE CORPS

Civil Defence (established 1949) is part of Britain's plan to improve defensive measures by enrolling volunteers to form the nucleus of a national auxiliary service.

The four Services concerned are the Civil Defence Corps, The Auxiliary Fire Service, the National Hospital Service Reserve and the Special Constabulary.

The first three train recruits (men and women) as part-time volunteers in peace-time for service if war should break out. The Special Constabulary provides training for recruits to assist the regular Police in peace as well as to establish additional trained reinforcements in emergency.

The Civil Defence Corps is a Crown service for which the Home Secretary and the Secretary of State for Scotland are responsible. Its local organization is a function of the local authorities. Each division (outside the County of London which has its own arrangements in conjunction with the Metropolitan Boroughs) comprises five sections: Headquarters, Warden, Rescue, Ambulance and Casualty Collecting and Welfare.

Civil Defence Staff College and training schools have been established for training Civil Defence Officers and Instructors. The National Hospital Service Reserve (recruited by the Minister of Health and Secretary of State for Scotland) concentrates the available medical and nursing man-power on the hospitals in co-operation with the St. John Ambulance Brigade and the British Red Cross Society.

Malta is a self-governing colony with a representative assembly, and responsible ministers.

On April 15, 1942, in recognition of the fortitude of the people of Malta in the face of continuous enemy air attack, King George VI awarded the George Cross to the Island.

By Letters Patent dated September 5, 1947, responsible government was re-established in Malta and the new Legislative Assembly was opened by His Royal Highness The Duke of Gloucester on November 10, 1947. The Maltese Legislature may not pass laws touching the public safety or defence of Her Majesty's dominions and the general interests of British subjects outside Malta. In addition to this general reservation certain subjects are specifically withheld from the Legislature's competence. The principal subjects so reserved are matters dealing with the defence of the Island, and naval, military or air force matters generally, aliens, immigration, currency and treaties and relations with foreign states except insofar as it may be necessary for laws to be made in Malta to enable effect to be given to any treaty extending to Malta. Laws dealing with "reserved matters" may be made by the Governor subject to Her Majesty's approval, or by Order in Council.

The Governor is assisted by two Councils, the Executive Council, consisting of the Cabinet, and the Nominated Council, consisting of the Lieutenant-Governor, the Legal Secretary, (who are ex officio members) and three officers chosen from the Navy, Army and Air Force. There is a Privy Council which consists of the members of the Executive Council and the members of the Nominated Council and the Governor may, as occasion may require, appoint a Joint Committee of the Privy Council consisting of three members of the Executive Council, nominated by the Prime Minister and three members of the Nominated Council selected by the Governor.

IMPERIAL AND COMMONWEALTH CONFERENCES

During the celebration of the Golden Jubilee of Queen Victoria in 1887, the first Colonial Conference was held at London. The principal subjects discussed were defence, postal arrangements, and cable services. Delegates were present from the United Kingdom, Newfoundland, Canada, New South Wales, Tasmania, the Cape of Good Hope, South Australia, New Zealand, Victoria, Queensland, West Australia, and Natal.

In 1894, the Canadian Government convened a Colonial Conference at Ottawa, chiefly to consider preferential tariff arrangements within the Empire. Representatives were present from Canada, New South Wales, Victoria, Queensland, South Australia, Tasmania, New Zealand, Cape Colony, and Fiji.

Further Colonial Conferences were held* in 1897, 1902, and 1907. At the 1907 meeting, the name Imperial Conference was adopted for future use.

In 1909, a special Conference on Naval and Military Defence took place.

A Conference on Copyright, subsidiary to the Imperial Conference, was held in 1910.

An Imperial Conference in 1911 discussed the organization of Imperial Conferences and of the Colonial Office, treaty arrangements, establishment of an Imperial Court of Appeal, migration, naturalization, cables, and shipping, and recommended the appointment of a Royal Commission to report on the natural resources of the Empire.

In 1917, the Imperial War Cabinet discussed the conduct of the war and possible peace arrangements, while the Imperial War Conference considered post-war problems, recommended full representation of India at future Imperial Conferences, and proposed that a special Imperial Conference be held after the war to consider constitutional relations, "based upon a full recognition of the Dominions as autonomous nations of an Imperial Commonwealth and of India as an important portion of the same".

Further meetings of the Imperial War Cabinet and Imperial War Conference took place in 1918.

In 1921, a Conference of Prime Ministers and Representatives of the United Kingdom, the Dominions and India was held, which discussed questions of foreign policy, defence, migration, nationality, air services and shipping, wireless communications, and the position of Indians in the Empire.

The Imperial Conference of 1923 discussed foreign policy, defence, and various other subjects, and made recommendations on treaty procedure. An Imperial Economic Conference took place simultaneously. These were the first meetings attended by delegates from the recently formed Irish Free State.

In 1926, an Imperial Conference defined the position of Great Britain and the Dominions as that of "autonomous communities within the British Empire, equal in status, in no way subordinate one to another in any aspect of their domestic or external affairs, though united by a common allegiance to the Crown, and freely associated as members of the British Commonwealth of Nations". This Conference also defined the position of Governors-General as representatives of the Crown, not of the United Kingdom Government, made further recommendations on treaty procedure and the general conduct of foreign policy and proposed the appointment of special bodies to inquire into the question of the operation of Dominion legislation and the question of merchant shipping legislation. In addition, it discussed foreign relations, defence, migration, and various economic matters.

A Conference on the Operation of Dominion Legislation and Merchant Shipping Legislation, held in 1929 as a result of the recommendation of the Imperial Conference of 1926, drew up proposals which resulted in the Statute of Westminster and in decentralization of legislation on merchant shipping.

The Imperial Conference of 1930 adopted these proposals and discussed numerous other matters relating to defence, nationality, foreign relations, and economic policy.

In 1932, an Imperial Economic Conference met at Ottawa and concluded trade agreements among the countries represented. Other economic matters were also considered, and a recommendation was made for the appointment of a committee to consider means of facilitating economic consultation and co-operation.

As a result of this recommendation, the Imperial Committee on Economic Consultation and Co-operation met in 1933 and issued a report on existing Commonwealth bodies concerned with economic co-operation, and the principles which should be adopted in this field.

In 1935, during the celebration of the Silver Jubilee of King George V, an informal Prime Ministers' Meeting took place to discuss foreign affairs and other matters of common concern.

An Imperial Conference met in 1937 and discussed questions of foreign relations, defence, and economic affairs.

The outbreak of the Second World War prevented the holding of further formal conferences, though in 1939 cabinet ministers from Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa conferred with United Kingdom ministers on means of co-ordinating their countries' war activities.

In 1944, a Prime Ministers' Meeting was held to discuss war and post-war questions.

A Commonwealth Telecommunications Conference, 1945, recommended the transfer to public ownership of the external telecommunications services of the countries represented.

Another Prime Ministers' Meeting in 1946 discussed draft peace treaties, the future of Germany, methods of consultation among Commonwealth countries, defence liaison arrangements, and economic and welfare co-operation in Southeast Asia and the South Pacific.

In 1947, a Conference was held at Canberra among representatives of Australia, the United Kingdom, Canada, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Pakistan, and Burma, to exchange views on the peace settlement with Japan.

A Prime Ministers' Meeting in 1948 discussed international relations, defence, economic affairs, and methods of consultation among Commonwealth governments.

In 1949, a Prime Ministers' Meeting was held to consider the possibility of India's remaining a member of the Commonwealth after becoming a republic. At the close of the meeting a declaration was issued by the Prime Ministers, in which the Government of India affirmed India's desire to continue her membership of the Commonwealth, and her acceptance of the King as the symbol of the free association of its independent member nations and as such the Head of the Commonwealth; while the Governments of the other countries of the Commonwealth accepted and recognized India's continuing membership.

A meeting of Commonwealth Finance Ministers took place in 1949, to exchange views on urgent economic problems resulting from reduction of the gold and dollar reserves of the sterling area.

In 1950, a Meeting on Foreign Affairs was held at Colombo among Commonwealth ministers dealing with that subject. It recommended the establishment of a Consultative Committee by Commonwealth governments interested in Southeast Asia, to encourage its economic improvement and thereby foster political stability. In addition, the Conference considered the situation created by the emergence of a Communist government in China, reviewed the recommendations of the Canberra Conference, 1947, on a peace settlement with Japan, and examined the situation in Western Europe.

The Consultative Committee on Co-operative Economic Development in South and Southeast Asia held its first meeting at Sydney, Australia, in May, 1950, and has met at frequent intervals since that time. The meeting of October, 1954, took place at Ottawa. The membership of the Committee was at first limited to Commonwealth countries, but has since been broadened to include others. Under the auspices of the Committee, the governments of South and Southeast Asia have drawn up programmes for economic development, to be financed in part by themselves and in part by assistance from other countries. A technical assistance scheme was also established.

In January, 1951, a Prime Ministers' Meeting was held to review the international situation. It discussed particularly the situation in the Far East, the Middle East, and Europe. Economic problems caused by shortages of raw materials were also discussed.

In June, 1951, the defence ministers of the United Kingdom, Australia, New Zealand, and the Union of South Africa, and a representative of Southern Rhodesia, met to consider certain defence problems in regions of common concern, including the Middle East. The Canadian Government was represented by an observer.

In September, 1951, a meeting of Commonwealth ministers concerned with supply and production discussed problems of the distribution of raw materials and manufactured goods.

A Commonwealth Finance Ministers' Meeting was held at London in 1952, to consider the situation created by a heavy and continued drain on gold reserves. The ministers decided to call their respective Governments' attention to measures to form part of a long-term policy designed to restore and maintain the full strength of sterling. The objective should be to make sterling convertible and keep it so.

There was a Commonwealth Economic Conference in 1952, at which the delegations were headed by Prime Ministers. This Conference agreed to seek the co-operation of the United States and European countries in a plan incorporating international action for the progressive removal of import restrictions by both creditor and debtor countries and the restoration by progressive stages of the convertibility of sterling when conditions permitted. It was also agreed that development in the sterling area should be concentrated on projects contributing to the improvement of the area's balance of payments with the rest of the world; and the United Kingdom undertook to try to provide additional capital for Commonwealth development by facilitating the financing of such projects, and to make sterling available for loan by the International Bank for certain projects.

After the Coronation in 1953, there was a Prime Ministers' Meeting which discussed foreign affairs and economic developments. Relations with the Soviet Union, the Korean negotiations, and the position in the Middle East received particular attention. In the economic field, the Prime Ministers reviewed developments since the Commonwealth Economic Conference and agreed that the Commonwealth countries should adhere to the long-term objectives and lines of policy then laid down.

A Commonwealth Finance Ministers' Meeting was held in 1954 at Sydney, Australia. It stressed the position of each country and of sterling as a currency, and the establishment with other countries of a wider and freer system of trade and finance in which convertibility of sterling would be an essential part.

A Prime Ministers' Meeting in 1955 surveyed international affairs. It was agreed that Pakistan, which was planning to adopt a republican form of government, should continue to be a full member of the Commonwealth. Regional meetings on defence matters were held during the Prime Ministers' Meeting.

A Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Meeting in 1956 reviewed the current state of international affairs, discussing in particular recent developments within the Soviet Union and the situation in the Middle East, the Far East and South East Asia. The Prime Ministers expressed their agreement that Ceylon should continue a member of the Commonwealth after the proposed adoption of a republican constitution.

In addition to these major conferences among heads of governments and the subsidiary meetings arising directly out of them, there have been numerous conferences of experts in special fields. These include the following: Imperial Statistical Conference, 1920; Imperial Entomological Conference, 1920; British Empire Forestry Conference, 1920; Imperial Customs Conference, 1921; British Empire Forestry Conference, Ottawa, 1923; Imperial Mycological Conference, 1924; Imperial Entomological Conference, 1925; Imperial Education Conference, 1927; Imperial Agricultural Research Conference, 1928; Conference on Cable and Wireless Communications, 1928; British Empire Forestry Conference, Australia and New Zealand, 1928; Empire Survey Officers' Conference, 1928; Conference of Empire Meteorologists, 1929; Empire Survey Officers' Conference, 1931; Conference of British Commonwealth Statisticians, Ottawa, 1935; British Empire Forestry Conference, South Africa, 1935; Empire Survey Officers' Conference, 1935; Conference of Empire Meteorologists, 1935; British Commonwealth Scientific Conference, 1936; Commonwealth Telegraph Conference, Sydney, 1942; British Commonwealth Scientific Conference, 1946; Conference of Commonwealth Meteorologists, 1946; British Commonwealth Conference on Nationality and Citizenship, 1947; Commonwealth Conference on Social Insurance, 1947; British Empire Forestry Conference, 1947; British Commonwealth Survey Officers' Conference, 1947; Conference of British Commonwealth Statisticians, Australia, 1948; British Commonwealth Survey Officers' Conference, 1951; British Commonwealth Forestry Conference, Ottawa, 1952; British Commonwealth Scientific Conference, Australia, 1952.

The Commonwealth Parliamentary Association (formerly the Empire Parliamentary Association) consists of representatives of the Commonwealth parliaments, and has branches in the countries represented. It was organized in 1911 and has held frequent meetings in various Commonwealth countries: in 1952 it met at Ottawa.

WORLD ORGANIZATIONS

THE UNITED NATIONS

The United Nations is a world organization for the maintenance of peace and security and for the promotion of the welfare of humanity built around the wartime union of free peoples in defence of civilization.

Through a series of conferences, at Dumbarton Oaks (August-October 1944), at Yalta (February 1945) and at San Francisco (April-June 1945), the Charter of the United Nations was produced.

The main organs of the United Nations are: the General Assembly, the Security Council, the Economic and Social Council, the Trusteeship Council, the International Court of Justice, the Secretariat. Subsidiary organs are established as and when required.

The General Assembly is composed of representatives of 76 Member States with one vote each. It is the only organ of the United Nations on which all Members are represented. It is a deliberative body where the Members have the opportunity to exchange views and state their problems. The Assembly in November 1950 decided that if the Security Council, because of lack of unanimity of the permanent members, fails to exercise its primary responsibility for maintaining international peace and security in any case where there appears to be a threat to peace, breach of the peace, or act of aggression, the Assembly would consider the matter immediately with a view to making recommendations to Members for collective measures, including, in the case of a breach of the peace or act of aggression, the use of armed force when necessary to restore peace. Decisions are taken by a two-thirds majority on important questions and a simple majority on other questions. The Assembly deals with its work through six Main Committees on which all Members have the right to be represented: First Committee (Political and Security, including the regulation of armaments); Second Committee (Economic and Financial); Third Committee (Social, Humanitarian, and Cultural); Fourth Committee (Trusteeship, including non-self-governing territories); Fifth Committee (Administrative and Budgetary); Sixth Committee (Legal). At each session since the second, the Assembly has established as well an ad hoc Political Committee to share the work of the First Committee in dealing with the large number of political questions on its agenda. The Assembly has also established procedural, standing and other ad hoc committees. Dr. R. A. Mackay is Canada's permanent representative at United Nations headquarters in New York.

The Security Council is composed of five permanent members, China, France, the United Kingdom, the United States and the Soviet Union. In addition, there are six non-permanent members elected by the General Assembly for a term of two years. The principal function of the Security Council is to examine questions endangering the maintenance of international peace and security, and to adopt and apply means to solve dangerous international situations or disputes. Each member of the Security Council has one vote. Decisions on procedural matters are made by an affirmative vote of seven members. On all other matters an affirmative vote of seven members, including the concurring votes of the five permanent members, is required (unless, in certain circumstances, a permanent member abstains from voting). Thus, the negative vote of one permanent member is sufficient to prevent the taking of a substantive decision. This is the "veto" power.

The Charter provides that a Military Staff Committee, consisting of the Chiefs of Staff of the permanent members of the Security Council or their representatives is to advise and assist the Security Council on all questions relating to the Council's military requirements for the maintenance of international peace and security, the regulation of armaments or possible disarmament.

On 11 January 1952 the General Assembly established the Disarmament Commission to replace the Atomic Energy Commission and the Commission for Conventional Armaments and to combine the work of both. The composition of this Commission is the same as that of the former Atomic Energy Commission, namely, the members of the Security Council plus Canada when that State is not a member of the Security Council.

The Economic and Social Council is composed of representatives of eighteen Member States elected by the General Assembly for a term of three years. Its function is to study and report on social and economic problems throughout the world, and to suggest means for their solution. Its decisions are taken by a simple majority vote. It is authorized to enter into agreements with specialized agencies for the purpose of bringing them into relationship with the United Nations. Such agreements are subject to approval by the General Assembly and the appropriate body of the specialized agency concerned. Agreements with the following agencies are in force: International Labour Organisation (ILO); Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO); United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO); International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO); International Bank for Reconstruction and Development; International Monetary Fund; World Health Organization (WHO); Universal Postal Union (UPU); International Telecommunication Union (ITU); World Meteorological Organization (WMO). An agreement with the proposed Inter-Governmental Maritime Consultative Organization (IMCO), approved in 1948 by the United Nations General Assembly, will come into force when approved by the Assembly of IMCO, after that Organization is officially established. An agreement has also been authorized with the International Trade Organization (ITO) if and when that body comes into existence.

The Economic and Social Council is aided in its work by several expert bodies, called commissions and sub-commissions, which keep international problems in their respective fields under review. These bodies cover such questions as transport and communications, statistical, human rights, social, population, status of women, narcotic drugs and international commodity trade. The Council has also set up regional economic commissions for Europe, for Asia and the Far East, and for Latin America. The Council, in addition, has made arrangements for consultation with non-governmental organizations which are concerned with matters within its competence.

The Trusteeship Council consists of Member Nations administering territories under trusteeship, the permanent members of the Security Council which do not administer trust territories, and as many other Members elected by the General Assembly as may be necessary to ensure that the total number of members in the Trusteeship Council is equally divided between those which administer trust territories and those which do not. The purpose of the Council is to study and report on political, economic, social, educational and cultural conditions in each territory under trusteeship, and supervise the application of trusteeship agreements. Its decisions are taken by a simple majority vote.

The International Court of Justice is the principal judicial organ of the United Nations. It consists of fifteen members elected for a term of nine years by the General Assembly and by the Security Council voting independently.

Mr. John E. Read, Canada—is one of the judges.

The Secretariat, under a Secretary-General appointed by the General Assembly upon the recommendation of the Security Council, serves the United Nations. It is organized into a number of administrative units. Four of these are known as Offices of the Secretary-General because the work they perform engages the Secretary-General's responsibility in a more direct and personal way. These are the Executive Office of the Secretary-General, the Office of Legal Affairs, the Controller's Office and the Office of Personnel. There is also an office of Under-Secretaries without Departments. Five of the units are Departments. These are the Department of Political and Security Council Affairs, the Department of Economic and Social Affairs, the Department of Trusteeship and Information from Non-Self-Governing Territories, the Department of Public Information and the Department of Conference Services. In addition, there is an Office of General Services and the Technical Assistance Administration, the latter being headed by a Director-General, Hon. Hugh L. Keenleyside, of Canada.

The permanent headquarters of the United Nations is situated in New York, N.Y.

WESTERN EUROPEAN UNION

2 Eaton Place, London, S.W.1, England

The Brussels Treaty, signed in 1948 by Belgium, France, Luxembourg, the Netherlands and the United Kingdom, provided for collective self-defence and for collaboration in economic, social and cultural matters.

On May 6, 1955, this Treaty was extended to include Germany and Italy and was revised to make it a more effective focus of European integration. The resulting organisation was named "Western European Union".

It consists of a Council, meeting either at Ministerial level or, more frequently, at Ambassadorial level at the seat of the Organisation in London; of an Agency for the Control of Armaments, set up to ensure that the undertakings given by the German Federal Republic not to manufacture certain armaments are observed, and to control the level of armaments of all seven Member states on the mainland of Europe; of a Standing Armaments Committee which deals with the production and standardisation of armaments; of a social and cultural organisation set up to further collaboration between the Seven on these questions; and of a Parliamentary Assembly composed of delegated members from the parliaments of all seven countries.

International secretariats serve the Council of W.E.U., the Agency for the Control of Armaments, and the Standing Armaments Committee.

QUALIFICATIONS FOR ELECTORS IN DOMINION AND PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS

ELECTIONS FOR THE DOMINION HOUSE OF COMMONS

According to the Canada Elections Act, and subject to certain exceptions, the general rule as to the qualifications of electors at a Dominion election is that every person in Canada, man or woman, is qualified to vote and entitled to be registered as an elector on the list of electors for the polling division in which such person ordinarily resides at the time of the issuing of the writ ordering a Dominion election in the electoral district if such person (a) is of the full age of 21 years, or will attain the full age of 21 years on or before polling day at the appropriate pending election; (b) is a Canadian citizen or other British subject; (c) has been ordinarily resident in Canada for the twelve months preceding polling day at the appropriate pending election, and (d) at a by-election only, has continued to be ordinarily resident in the electoral district until polling day. Among persons disqualified are Indians living on a reserve who have not executed a waiver of exemptions from taxation, prisoners, and persons under restraint owing to mental disease. Indians residing on an Indian reserve who have served in World War I or World War II, and their wives, are entitled to vote without the requirements of executing a waiver of exemptions from taxation.

Whenever an election is ordered an entire new list of electors is prepared, according to the Canada Elections Act, under the general direction of the Chief Electoral Officer, and supervision of a returning officer who is appointed for each electoral district. There are two classes of polling divisions which are called Urban and Rural. Generally speaking urban polling divisions are those comprised in cities and towns of over 5,000 population, the other polling divisions are rural. In urban polling divisions, a pair of enumerators, representing different political interests, is appointed for each polling division. They make a house-to-house visitation immediately after the issue of the writ for the appropriate pending election, to secure the necessary information to complete a list of electors for their polling division. In rural polling divisions, the list is similarly prepared by one rural enumerator. Writs for a Dominion election are issued about two months before the date fixed for polling day, except at by-elections when such writs may be issued about 6 weeks before polling day.

Chief Electoral Officer, Nelson J. Castonguay, Ottawa.

THE VICTORIA CROSS

THE VICTORIA CROSS was instituted by Queen Victoria at the close of the Crimean campaign, 1856. It is a Maltese cross, made of gun metal, with a Royal Crest in the centre and underneath it an escroll bearing the inscription "For Valor," and is awarded, irrespective of rank, to members of any branch of Her Majesty's services, either in the Imperial Forces or those of any British dominion, colony, dependency or protectorate, the Mercantile Marine, nurses or staffs of hospitals, or to civilians of either sex while serving in either regular or temporary capacity during naval, military, or air force operations. It is awarded only "for most conspicuous bravery or some daring or pre-eminent act of valour or self-sacrifice or extreme devotion to duty in the presence of the enemy." For additional conduct of similar bravery, a Bar is added. The ribbon was formerly red for the Army and blue for the Navy, but is now crimson for all services. An annuity of £10 a year accompanies the decoration, plus £5 a year for every Bar granted; payable to ranks below commission ranks from the date of the act which concerns the award. Navy, Army and Royal Air Force regulations provide for the annuity to be increased to the maximum of £75, including any other pension from public funds where officers and other ranks are incapable of earning a livelihood by reason of age or infirmity occasioned by a cause outside the recipient's control. Since June 17th, 1943, the financial responsibility has been assumed by the Canadian Government, and the pound sterling is deemed to have a value of $5.00 in Canadian currency where this is concerned.

TITULAR HONOURS

For some years honours involving titles have not been bestowed on Canadians living in Canada.

On May 22, 1919, during the premiership of the Rt. Hon. Robert L. Borden, a resolution adopted by the House of Commons requested His Majesty to refrain from granting titular honours to Canadian citizens in the future. This policy was reversed in 1933 when, during the premiership of the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, the Canadian Government recommended a number of such awards, which were duly granted on New Year's Day, 1934. Although titular honours were again conferred in 1935, the new administration which took office later that year under the premiership of the Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King revived the previous policy of the Government of 1919, and no titular honours have been recommended or awarded since that time.

On July 24, 1942, a Special Committee on Honours and Decorations reported to the House as follows:

"As a result of their deliberations your Committee desire to make the following recommendations:

- (1) That His Majesty's subjects domiciled or ordinarily resident in Canada be eligible for the award of Honours and Decorations, including awards in the Orders of Chivalry, which do not involve titles.
- (2) That His Majesty's Government in Canada consider a submission to His Majesty the King, of proposals for the establishment of an Order limited in number but not involving a title, for which His Majesty's subjects domiciled or ordinarily resident in Canada shall alone be eligible."

The Companions of Honour, instituted in 1917. Membership is limited; carries no title.

In all Orders of Knighthood the Knights Grand Cross and the Knights Commanders have the prefix "Sir" with the initials of their class following the name. Companions and Members bear no title, but have the letters C.B., C.M.G., M.V.O., as the case may be, attached to their names.

The arms are those of England, Scotland, Ireland and France, with a "difference" to mark them as Canadian, namely on the lower third of the shield, a sprig of maple on a silver shield. The crest is a lion holding in its paw a red maple leaf, a symbol of sacrifice. The supporters are, with some slight distinctions, the lion and unicorn of the Royal Arms; the lion upholds the Union Jack, and the unicorn the ancient banner of France.

The motto — A MARI USQUE AD MARE — "From sea to sea" — is an extract from the Latin version of verse 8 of the 72nd Psalm — "He shall have dominion also from sea to sea, and from the river unto the ends of the earth."

There is a tradition, that the Fathers of Confederation derived the designation "Dominion" from this verse.

PETITIONS TO THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

A petition to the House of Commons must be presented by a Member, and such Member shall be answerable that the petition does not contain "impertinent or improper matter". One person may petition the House of Commons. Petitions may be either written or printed. When there are three or more petitioners, the signatures of at least three shall be subscribed on the sheet containing the prayer of the petition.

Long usage both here and in the United Kingdom has sanctioned the rule that every petition should commence with the superscription "To the Honourable the House of Commons of Canada in Parliament assembled". Then should follow the formula "The Petition of the undersigned — humbly sheweth". The subject matter of the petition then follows in the third person throughout and each paragraph should commence with the word "That".

The conclusion should be the "prayer", briefly and clearly expressing the particular object which the petitioners have in view in coming before Parliament. The petition should close with the formal words "And your petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray".

FEDERAL PARLIAMENT REPRESENTATION

The Parliament of Canada consists of the Senate and the House of Commons.

THE SENATE

Senators are appointed for life; must be Canadian Citizens or British subjects and 30 years of age; must own lands worth net $4,000 in the province which they represent, and must be worth $4,000 above all debts. They must be residents of the province for which appointed or of the electoral division in the Province of Quebec.

The Speaker is appointed by the Governor-General.

The Senate as originally constituted at Confederation consisted of 72 members. Through the addition of new provinces and the general growth of Canada it now has 102 members, the latest change in representation having been made March 31, 1949, with the admission of Newfoundland to Confederation. By provinces, representation is as follows: Newfoundland 6, Prince Edward Island 4, Nova Scotia 10, New Brunswick 10, Quebec 24, Ontario 24, Manitoba 6, Saskatchewan 6, Albert 6, British Columbia 6: total 102.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

The members of the House of Commons are elected by the people. The ordinary legal limit of duration for each Parliament is five years, sitting at least once a year. The Speaker is elected by the House.

In the 21st Parliament, elected June 27, 1949, the House of Commons consisted of 255 members. A Redistribution Act, passed after each decennial census readjusts the representation in the House of Commons in accordance with rules laid down in Section 51 of the British North America Acts, 1867 to 1952.

By virtue of the Representation Act, 1952, membership in the House of Commons was increased from 255 to 265 effective at the general election held August 10, 1953.

Representation in the House of Commons for the 22nd Parliament is as follows: Alberta 17; British Columbia 22; Manitoba 14; New Brunswick 10; Newfoundland 7; Nova Scotia 12; Ontario 85; Prince Edward Island 4; Quebec 75; Saskatchewan 17; Mackenzie District, N.W.T. 1; and the Yukon Territory 1; making a total of 265.

INDIAN AFFAIRS BRANCH

The administration of Indian Affairs was under the direct control of the Imperial Government until 1860, when it was transferred to the Province of Canada. By the British North America Act Indians and lands reserved for Indians, were placed under the Dominion Government. For six years after Confederation, Indian Affairs was attached to the Department of the Secretary of State. In 1873 it was transferred to the Department of the Interior, and in 1880 a separate Department of Indian Affairs was established. On Dec. 1, 1936, under the Department of Mines and Resources Act it was replaced by the Indian Affairs Branch of the Department of Mines and Resources. In January, 1950, the Indian Affairs Branch became a part of the Department of Citizenship and Immigration. At the time of the 1951 census, the Indians numbered 151,558. They are located on some 2,200 reserves comprising approximately five and a half million acres of which about 400,000 acres are under cultivation. The department operates schools for Indians comprising both day and residential institutions, the latter being conducted in cooperation with various religious denominations interested in the work of Indian education. At the present time there are 477 in all of these schools educating some 29,571 children. The Branch also provides for the education of 5,566 children in non-Indian schools. An important part of the administration is the Indian Trust Fund, which amounts to over $25,000,000 and is derived from sales or leases of land, timber, and minerals, and from other miscellaneous sources.

DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL HEALTH AND WELFARE

The Department of National Health and Welfare was established in October 1944, under the Department of National Health and Welfare Act, 1944. It is organized into the Health, Welfare, and Administration Branches.

The Health Branch is composed of three Directorates: Food and Drug, Health Services and Indian and Northern Health Services. The primary responsibility of the Food and Drug Directorate is the administration of the Food and Drugs and the Proprietary or Patent Medicine Acts and Regulations.

The most important function of the Health Services Directorate is the administration of the National Health Program, under which, grants of up to thirty-six million dollars annually are made available to the Provinces for the development, extension and improvement of health facilities and the training of health workers. Other aspects of public health dealt with by the Health Services Directorate include; the provision of advisory and co-ordinating services to provincial health departments; the administration of the Quarantine Act, the Leprosy Act and Part V of the Canada Shipping Act; the treatment of sick mariners; the medical examination of immigrants and the enforcement of sanitation measures on inter-provincial and international carriers. A consultative role is played by the Directorate in the fields of mental health, prevention and control of communicable diseases, industrial hygiene, nutrition, blindness control, dental health, child and maternal health, hospital design, medical rehabilitation and public health generally.

The Directorate of Indian and Northern Health Services is primarily concerned with the provision of Hospital and medical treatment services for Indians and Eskimos and the improvement of general health conditions among this element of the population. It also has assumed responsibilities with respect to the development of health facilities for persons living in the Yukon and the Northwest Territories.

In addition to an active interest in the work of national voluntary health and welfare organizations, the Department assists, on an international plane, such bodies as the World Health Organization and other specialized agencies of the United Nations. It is responsible for the enforcement of any public health regulations made by the International Joint Commission concerning boundary waters between the United States and Canada.

A number of federal-provincial committees act in an advisory capacity to the Department on health matters. The most important of these, the Dominion Council of Health, is composed of the Deputy Minister of National Health, who acts as chairman, the chief health officer of each province and five persons appointed by the Governor-in-Council. Federal-provincial committees of a technical and advisory nature supplement the activities of the Council.

The Welfare Branch administers the Family Allowances Act, 1944 and the Old Age Security Act, 1951, and is responsible for administration of the federal aspects of the Old Age Assistance Act, 1951, and the Blind Persons Act, 1951, and the Disabled Persons Act, 1954.

The Department is also responsible for federal civil defence planning; the Civil Defence Co-ordinator reports to both Deputy Ministers.

The Administration Branch consists of divisions whose activities cover both the health and welfare fields, and include research and information services, legal and library services, statistical and information services, and office and personnel services for the Department.

DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL REVENUE

From Confederation on July 1, 1867, until May 17 1918, Customs and Inland Revenue Acts were administered by two separate government departments known as the Department of Customs, constituted by statute (31 Vic. Chap. 43), and the Department of Inland Revenue constituted by statute (31 Vic. Chap. 49). On May 18, 1918, by Order in Council these two Departments were amalgamated and combined under the name of the Department of Customs and Inland Revenue and under one Minister of the Crown.

The collection of Income Tax was placed under the control of the Minister of Customs and Excise on April 1, 1924, and by the Department of National Revenue Act (17 Geo. V. Chap. 34) the name was changed to the Department of National Revenue.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

The Civil Service Commission was constituted by the Civil Service Act of 1908 (7-8 Edward VII., chap. 15) which introduced the merit system in the administration of a portion of the personnel of the Civil Service at Ottawa. The jurisdiction of the Commission was extended in 1918, when practically the entire personnel of the public service was placed under its control. In 1918, also, the Commission was given additional responsibilities relative to the organization of departments and the classification of positions in the Civil Service. The classification system administered by the Commission is designed to provide an orderly means of designating the various positions and of achieving uniformity in the salary rates for work at equal levels of difficulty and responsibility.

CANADA'S ARMED SERVICES

THE ROYAL CANADIAN NAVY

The Royal Canadian Navy is made up of two components, the Regular Force (RCN) and the Reserves (RCN(R)). The strengths of these as of June 30, 1956, were:

RCN	Officers	2,315	Men	16,075
Wren	Officers	15	Wrens	79
RCN	Cadets	375
RCN(R)	Officers	1,651	Men	3,533
Wren	Officers	62	Wrens	696

Cadets of the University Naval Training Divisions and Reserve Cadets at the Canadian Services Colleges numbered 792, making the total strength of the two forces, 25,563.

The RCN is composed of 11 branches. They are: Executive, Engineering, Civil Engineering, Electrical, Chaplain Services, Instructor, Medical, Supply, Constructor, Ordnance and Special Branches.

The RCN(R) has the same branch divisions and is also divided between the Active and Retired Lists. Officers and men of the Active List undergo periodic training and may perform special duty or Continuous Naval Duty in the RCN in lieu of an officer or man of the RCN of like or higher rank, authorized by complement but not borne.

Officers of the Retired List and men of the Emergency List (its "lower deck" equivalent) are not required to undergo periodic training but may do so. They may also perform special duty or Continuous Naval Duty in the RCN under the same conditions as members of the Active List.

THE NAVAL ESTABLISHMENT

The RCN is composed of four Commands:

Headquarters Command, established in Ottawa, is the administrative headquarters of the RCN. Its establishment is commissioned as HMCS Bytown.

Atlantic Command is organized with headquarters in HMC Dockyard, Halifax, N.S., and is the operational and administrative authority, under naval headquarters, for the RCN ships and establishments in eastern Canada.

Pacific Command is organized on the same basis as the Atlantic Command with headquarters in HMC Dockyard, Esquimalt, B.C.

Flag Officer Naval Divisions is responsible for the administration of all establishments, and the training of all personnel, of the RCN(R). The command headquarters is in Hamilton, Ont.

A list of RCN and RCN(R) shore establishments is included under "Naval Establishments, Department of National Defence, Departments of Government". See Index.

CURRENT COMPOSITION OF THE RCN

For the protection of shipping and the defence of Canadian coastal areas and harbours, the Royal Canadian Navy had 57 ships in commission as of June 15, 1956. Forty of these are currently earmarked as this country's contribution for the defence of coastal waters in the Canada-United States region and for the NATO naval forces under the control of the Supreme Allied Commander, Atlantic.

Currently in commission are one light fleet aircraft carrier, one training cruiser, one Arctic patrol ship, 12 destroyer escorts, 10 modernized frigates, eight coastal escorts, eight coastal minesweepers, six patrol craft, one survey vessel, one apprentice training ship and eight miscellaneous vessels. Three Royal Navy submarines normally are based in Canada under RCN operational control.

It is anticipated that a squadron of new St. Laurent Class destroyer escort ships, the first of which was commissioned in Montreal on October 23, 1955, will be formed by the end of this year.

As of June 15, 1956, there were, in addition to the ships in commission, 42 ships in reserve, nine on loan to other Government Departments and three on loan to Norway.

At the beginning of 1956, there were 123 auxiliary craft in service and 48 auxiliary craft in reserve.

Since 1949, 79 vessels have been laid down, of which 68 have been launched. Of those launched, 44 have been completed as of June 15, 1956.

Following June 1st, 1941 this association was transferred to the Navy, since which time the Royal Canadian Navy has assumed the responsibility of certain jurisdiction, training and supervision of Sea Cadet Corps, and the operation of summer training camps, with the Navy League being responsible for administration and general operation of Corps and the providing of both summer camps and Corps training quarters.

Throughout the ten provinces of Canada there are 124 Sea Cadet Corps with an authorized complement of 10,000 Cadets. The age limit for Sea Cadets is from 14 to 18 years of age inclusive.

THE CANADIAN ARMY

DEFENCE

The National Defence Act, the organizational portions of which were proclaimed to come into force on the first of August, 1950, provided for a Department of National Defence presided over by a Minister. The organization of and terms of service in the military forces of Canada, collectively called "The Canadian Forces", are prescribed in the National Defence Act Chapter 43, Statutes of Canada 1950.

Military Command and Administration of the Army is exercised by Army Headquarters, Ottawa, through five Commands: Western, Prairie, Central, Quebec and Eastern.

There are seven Areas within and subordinate to Commands.

ORGANIZATION

The National Defence Act provides the Canadian Army shall consist of:

- (a) The Canadian Army (Regular) consisting of officers and men who are enrolled for continuing full time military service. Such personnel are employed within field and training units and other staff and service elements.

- (b) The Reserves composed of:

- (i) The Canadian Army (Militia) consisting of officers and men who have by virtue of their terms of service undertaken to perform, when not on active service, such duty and training as may be required.
- (ii) The Supplementary Reserve consisting of officers and men who are not, by virtue of their terms of service, required to perform duty or training. The Supplementary Reserve contains the pre-war lists of Reserve personnel.
- (iii) The Canadian Officers' Training Corps is composed of officers who are required for the command, administration and instruction of officers under training. The Canadian Officers' Training Corps is liable to undergo annual military training.

- (iv) The Cadet Services of Canada consists of commissioned officers whose duty is the administration and training of cadets of the Royal Canadian Army Cadets. Such Officers are liable to undergo annual training.
- (v) The Reserve Militia consists of officers and men who volunteer to hold themselves in readiness for service in the event of an emergency and are not required to undergo annual military training.

In addition there are certain joint educational and training establishments, listed as follows, which are not integral to the Canadian Army, but whose administration is an Army responsibility:

The National Defence College
The Royal Military College
The Joint Atomic, Biological and Chemical Defensive Warfare School.

ROYAL CANADIAN ARMY CADETS

Colonel-in-Chief: H. R. H. The Duke of Edinburgh

Address—Directorate of Militia and Cadets, Army Headquarters, Ottawa, Ont.

The Army Cadet organization stems from the "Drill Associations" formed in Colleges and Schools during and after the American Civil War, 1861-1866. Such corps were first authorized by an Amendment to the Militia Act, dated 9th June, 1862 and is still authorized.

In 1942, the Department of National Defence expanded the Army Cadet organization, regularized the training, clothing and equipment, and began affiliating corps with the Canadian Army Militia.

In 1951, this establishment was raised to 65,000, and the training was aligned more closely with that of the Militia. Nearly all corps became affiliated with Army Units. In 1956, the establishment was further increased to 75,000.

Cadets receive realistic pre-military and citizenship training. In addition, courses are conducted at summer camps for training about 6,000 selected cadets in certain Army trades or as cadet leaders.

The total strength of the RC Army Cadets, June, 1956, is 65,000 in 567 corps. Many of these corps are sponsored by secondary schools. Army cadets wear a khaki battledress-type uniform, with the red Maple Leaf badge on the upper arm. Many cadets wear the same head-dress as that of the affiliated Militia unit.

THE ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE

The Royal Canadian Air Force officially sets April 1, 1924, as its birthday. The foundations were laid during the First World War when nearly 22,000 Canadians flew as members of the British Air Forces.

The RCAF began with a tiny force of slightly more than 300 officers and men. During the peace between the two world wars, its task was to photo vast unmappped areas, spot forest fires, fly sick and injured from remote areas and join with civilian fliers to further Canadian aviation.

On the eve of the Second World War, the total strength of the RCAF was 4,061 personnel, but, before the end of the conflict, it rose to a peak strength of more than 215,000 including over 17,000 members of the Women's Division.

The governments of the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand signed an agreement in 1939 to set up a British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, organized and administered by the RCAF, to train aircrew. Under the plan 131,553 aircrew were trained in Canada, of which 72,835 were Canadians.

During the Second World War, 48 RCAF squadrons operated overseas in addition to many home based squadrons which protected Canada and carried out convoy and anti-submarine patrols in the Pacific and Atlantic oceans. Thousands of other RCAF members flew with Royal Air Force squadrons. Casualties suffered by the RCAF during the conflict totaled 17,100 men and women.

Playing an important part in the RCAF's war effort was the Women's Division, serving in Canada and overseas. Women are again serving, in peacetime, at home and abroad in the RCAF.

The Royal Canadian Air Force of today, administered from Air Force headquarters, Ottawa, is commanded by the Chief of the Air Staff, responsible to the Minister of National Defence. The RCAF is divided into six commands; Training, Air Defence, Air Transport, Air Materiel, Tactical, and Maritime. No. 1 Air Division, controlling Canada's 12 Sabre Squadrons in Europe, is, in effect a Command, in that it is responsible to AFHQ for administrative purposes, but is under functional control of the 4th Allied Tactical Air Force, NATO component.

Present personnel strength March 31, 1956, was 50,000.

Aircrew from ten countries of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are being trained in Canada, by the RCAF, with expenses of the actual training being borne by Canada as part of its contribution to NATO. More than 4,000 such NATO aircrew have already received their wings. They are from Belgium, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Norway, the United Kingdom, Portugal, Greece, Denmark and Turkey.

Thirty-nine squadrons have been formed by the R.C.A.F. Emphasis is being placed on the building of fighter squadrons and the vital early warning system, although transport operations, photo survey, search and rescue, and Maritime operations form an important part of RCAF activities. Three additional home-based fighter squadrons are planned.

Two of the world's finest jet fighters are in production in Canada. One of these, the all-Canadian CF-100 is a long-range, all-weather, two-seater fighter designed for Canadian operational requirements. The other, the F-86 Sabre, is an American designed day-fighter which is being built in Canada using the Canadian-built Orenda engine. These Sabres are being used by the RCAF operational squadrons in Europe and are also being provided to other NATO air forces.

From July, 1950 and concluding in June, 1954, the RCAF, flying Canadian-built North Star aircraft, flew more than 34,000 hours carrying more than seven million pounds of freight and 13,000 passengers between North America and Japan, in support of the UN effort in Korea.

Ten auxiliary squadrons are in existence, located at Montreal, P.Q., Toronto, Ont., Winnipeg, Man., Saskatoon, Sask., Calgary, Alta., Edmonton, Alta., and Vancouver, B.C. Reserve ground training is conducted in various types of units, including radar and communications, technical training, medical, intelligence, and aircraft control and warning. Included as a part of the reserve scheme are reserve squadrons at universities and a refresher flying training program carried out for the RCAF by civilian flying clubs.

ROYAL CANADIAN AIR CADETS

Air Cadet activities in Canada are sponsored and administered by the Air Cadet League of Canada. The League is a voluntary civilian organization created solely for this purpose and was formed in 1940 to provide preliminary aviation training for potential members of the Royal Canadian Air Force. In peacetime the object of Air Cadet training is to produce better citizens through air-age education. The Royal Canadian Air Force works jointly with the League and provides training personnel, syllabi and equipment.

During the war, the Royal Canadian Air Cadets reached a peak enrolment of 30,000. The authorized peacetime strength ceiling is 22,500 and the strength in Jan. 1956 was more than 21,000 enrolled in 281 squadrons across Canada. Air Cadet Training is carried out in more than 225 communities, both large and small, from Newfoundland to British Columbia.

THE CANADIAN SERVICES COLLEGES

Royal Military College of Canada, Kingston, Ont.

Royal Roads, Victoria, B.C.

Collège Militaire Royal de Saint-Jean,
Saint-Jean, Que.

The Royal Military College of Canada was founded in 1876 at Kingston, Ont. Royal Roads was established in 1941 near Victoria, B.C., as a school for naval officers. In September, 1948, both Colleges were constituted as the Canadian Services Colleges to provide a joint educational and training program for the three Armed Forces of Canada. Collège Militaire Royal de Saint-Jean was opened in 1952 at Saint-Jean, Quebec, as the third member of the Canadian Services Colleges.

The purpose of the Canadian Services Colleges is to instruct cadets in appropriate skills and to encourage the qualities essential to continued development after graduation as officers in the Regular or Reserve Forces of the Royal Canadian Navy, Canadian Army, or the Royal Canadian Air Force. Courses of instruction are designed to develop character, to provide a balanced and liberal education in Arts and Sciences, and to provide a broad basic military education. The tri-service program at Royal Military College, Royal Roads and Collège Militaire Royal de Saint-Jean recognizes the fundamental qualities common to the training of officers whether for the Navy, Army, or Air Force, and thereby, seeks to weld a common understanding in matters of national defence.

On entry into one of the Canadian Services Colleges, applicants are enrolled as Regular or Reserve Force subordinate officers in the Armed Force of their selection. On graduation from the four year course, subordinate officers are promoted to Commissioned rank.

Educational requirements are senior matriculation for admission to the first year at all three Colleges, and junior matriculation for entry to the preparatory year which is given only at Collège Militaire Royal de Saint-Jean.

Candidates must have reached their 16th, but not their 21st, birthday on the first day of January preceding entrance with the exception of junior matriculation candidates for Collège Militaire Royal de Saint-Jean who must have reached their 16th but not their 20th, birthday on the first day of January preceding entrance.

CANADIAN FLAGS AND BADGES

FLAG OF GOVERNOR GENERAL

In 1930 King George V approved the design of a Flag for the Governor General of Canada that would be symbolic of the position of the Governor General as the Sovereign's personal representative. The Flag so approved is of the following description: "On a blue field, the Royal Crest,—the Imperial Crown proper, thereon a lion statant-guardant or, 'crowned proper'—subscribed 'CANADA' in black on a yellow scroll."

THE UNION JACK

This flag may be flown on land by Canadian citizens. With the shield of the Provincial coat of arms it is the official flag of the Lieutenant-Governor of that province. The Union Jack may be flown on selected forts, armories, drill halls and other buildings occupied by the Canadian Army in Canada. (Refer also to paragraph "The Canadian Red Ensign").

THE CANADIAN RED ENSIGN

With the Shield of the Arms of the Dominion of Canada in the fly, was authorized by Admiralty Warrant of the 2nd February, 1892, to be used on board Canadian registered merchant vessels. Following the authorization of a new Coat of Arms for the Dominion of Canada in 1921, it was provided by Order in Council (P.C. 843, 26th April, 1922) that the Shield of the Arms of Canada appearing on the fly of the Canadian Red Ensign should be the Shield of the new Canadian Coat of Arms. In 1934, by Chapter 89 (1) of the Shipping Act, Chapter 44, Statutes of Canada, 1934, statutory provision was made for the flying of the Canadian Red Ensign on ships of Canadian registry.

The Canadian Red Ensign or the Union Jack will be flown at Army Headquarters, at selected forts, armories, drill halls and other buildings within commands at the discretion of the officer commanding the command, and by the Canadian Army when stationed outside of Canada. The use of the Union Jack should be the exception and not the rule.

At units, camps and stations, in Canada and the United States, where both the Stars and Stripes and the Canadian Red Ensign or Union Jack are flown, the Canadian Red Ensign or Union Jack should be half-masted on such occasions as the Stars and Stripes is half-masted.

The Canadian Red Ensign as a National Flag

By Order in Council (P.C. 134, 26th January, 1924) the display of the Canadian Red Ensign was authorized from "all buildings owned or occupied by the Canadian Government and situated without Canada."

On Sept. 5, 1945, Order in Council P.C. 5888 was issued as follows:

"That, until such time as action is taken by Parliament for the formal adoption of a national flag, it is desirable to authorize the flying of the Canadian Red Ensign on Federal government buildings within as well as without Canada, and to remove any doubt as to the propriety of flying the Canadian Red Ensign wherever place or occasion may make it desirable to fly a distinctive Canadian flag;

Therefore, His Excellency the Governor General in Council, on the recommendation of the Prime Minister, is pleased to order and doth hereby order that the Red Ensign with the shield of the Coat of Arms of Canada in the fly (hereinafter referred to as "the Canadian Red Ensign") may be flown from buildings owned or occupied by the Federal government within and without Canada.

His Excellency in Council, on the same recommendation, is further pleased to declare and doth hereby declare that it shall be appropriate to fly the Canadian Red Ensign within and without Canada wherever place or occasion may make it desirable to fly a distinctive Canadian flag.

Nothing herein shall be deemed to alter in any way the provisions now in force with respect to the flying of the Blue Ensign with the shield of the Coat of Arms of Canada in the fly on Canadian Naval vessels and other government vessels, nor with respect to the Flying of the Canadian Red Ensign on Canadian Merchant vessels."

THE CANADIAN BLUE ENSIGN

With the Shield of the Arms of the Dominion of Canada in the fly, is used on the Jack staff of all ships and vessels of the Royal Canadian Navy and has also been adopted as the official flag for vessels in the Canadian Government Service. Ships operated by provincial government departments, ships and yachts attached to Royal Yacht Clubs in Canada, and merchant ships carrying a specified number of naval reservists as part crew, may wear the Canadian Blue Ensign on authority of a Warrant to do so, issued by the Minister of National Defence.

WHITE ENSIGN

Under agreements made between the Canadian Government and the Government of the United Kingdom at the Imperial Conference 1911, Ships of War of the Dominion of Canada hoist at the stern the White Ensign as a symbol of the authority of the Crown.

NAVAL BOARD FLAG

In 1943, approval was given to a flag to be flown by the Naval Board of Canada. The design is: The Admiralty anchor in gold in the centre of the flag, on red and blue, bisected diagonally with the blue portion nearest the staff, and the red portion uppermost. The flag may be flown both day and night from Naval Headquarters and shall be flown both day and night in H.M.C. ships and establishments when (i) two or more members are present in their official capacities, or (ii) His Excellency The Governor General of Canada is embarked.

This flag, if flown at Naval Headquarters, shall only be struck at Naval Headquarters when the Board as a whole is absent.

R.C.A.F. ENSIGN

This was approved by King George VI, July 5, 1940. The flag is light blue. In the upper quarter next to the flagstaff the Union Jack and in the centre of the fly two roundels, white upon dark blue, and upon the centre of the white roundel a red maple leaf. Royal Canadian Air Force Orders provide that the Royal Canadian Air Force Ensign is to be flown daily at all Royal Canadian Air Force formations, units and detachments.

THE ROYAL CANADIAN NAVAL BADGE

It consists of an oval-shaped shield of deep blue upon which is a fouled anchor in gold. The shield is encircled by a wreath of ten golden maple leaves, five on each side, and is surmounted by the Royal Crown.

THE CANADIAN ARMY BADGE

This badge was approved in 1947 by King George VI. It is for the use of the Canadian Army as a whole and has replaced the Coat of Arms on army stationery, publications, etc. The following is a description of the approved design: It consists of three hard red maple leaves, conjoined on one stem, upon two crusader's swords, points upwards, blades in silver and grips, guards and pommels in gold. Above, is the Crown properly coloured. In accordance with the wish of Her Majesty the Queen, the Crown was changed in 1954 from the "Tudor" design to the "St. Edward's" design.

THE R.C.A.F. BADGE

This was approved by King George VI in February, 1943. The official description of the badge is: within a dark blue circular band edged with gold and inscribed in gold the motto "PER ARDUA AD ASTRA," a light blue roundel. In front of the whole a gold eagle flying forward with head lowered and to its left with wings extended beyond the circular band. Beneath, a dark blue riband edged gold and inscribed in gold with the words "ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE." The whole is surmounted with the Royal Crown.

NOVA SCOTIA FLAG

The official flag of the province of Nova Scotia is the blue cross of St. Andrew on a white field, with the Royal Lion mounted thereon. The flag was originally authorized by Charles I in 1625. In 1929, on petition of Nova Scotia, a Royal Warrant of King George V was issued, revoking the modern Arms and ordering that the original Arms granted by King Charles I be borne upon shields, banners and otherwise according to the laws of Arms. Since that time, the Nova Scotia Flag has been in continual use.

PROVINCE OF QUEBEC FLAG

The official flag of the Province of Quebec was adopted by a Provincial Order-in-Council No. 72 on January 1, 1948. The flag thus adopted is generally known as the "fleurdelisé" flag. It is a white cross on a sky blue ground, with the fleur-de-lis in an upright position on the blue ground in each of the four corners of the flag.

ROYAL CANADIAN MOUNTED POLICE

Honorary Commissioner, HER MAJESTY QUEEN ELIZABETH II

In 1873 the North West Mounted Police was constituted (36 Vic. Chap. 35) to provide Police protection in the unsettled portions of the North West. In 1904 the title "Royal" was given to the Force. In 1920 the Dominion Police was amalgamated with this Force and the name changed to "Royal Canadian Mounted Police." The headquarters was moved from Regina to Ottawa and the Force may now be called upon to perform duties in any portion of the Dominion. In 1928 the Royal Canadian Mounted Police absorbed the Saskatchewan Provincial Police and in 1932 the Provincial Police Forces of Alberta, Manitoba, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island were absorbed in like manner. During the year 1932, the Force also assumed the administration of the Preventive Service Branch of the Department of National Revenue. On August 1, 1950, the duties of the Newfoundland Rangers and certain members of the Newfoundland Constabulary were taken over by the R.C.M.P., and on the 15th of the same month the British Columbia Provincial Police were similarly absorbed. These arrangements were made by agreements between the respective Provincial Governments concerned and the Federal Government. The term of engagement in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police is five years. Recruits are trained at Regina, Saskatchewan and Rockcliffe (near Ottawa), Ontario. At a recent date the Force had 189 horses, 22 Police Service dogs, 251 Sleigh dogs, 1277 cars and trucks, 76 motorcycles, 11 aeroplanes, and 72 ships and boats. The strength, including civilian clerks and reserves, was 6,916.
